SPRACKLIN AND HOTEL IN BADGER CASE

IN THE BLACKMAIL TRIAL

Ernest Spracklin, Beau Brummel manager of Copley Square Hotel, photographed on his way to court to testify at the blackmail trial, and exterior of the Copley Square Hotel, at Huntington avenue and Exeter street, where three wealthy men were trapped with girls, allegedly by the "Blackmail Ring."

SPRACKLIN ON GRILL AGAIN

$10,000 Victim of Blackmail Ring Is Identified as a Rich Maine Man

Ernest Spracklin, manager of the Copley Square hotel resumed testifying in the Blackmail Trial today.

He wore his overcoat on the witness stand, placing his famous pearl gray hat in a nearby chair.

It was the 17th day of the trial of William J. Corcoran, his brother Leo, Attorney Harry Levenson and others charged with extortion and blackmail.

Spracklin was interrogated as to entries in the hotel register.

The courtroom was jammed.

It was at Spracklin's hotel, it is alleged, that many of the Blackmailing's famous shakedowns occurred.

Prosecutor Arthur D. Hill continued to interrogate Spracklin concerning entries in the hotel transients' ledger.

Q.—I will direct your attention, Mr. Spracklin, to page 39 of the transients' ledger. I will ask you concerning an entry there.

Attorney Walsh objected.

Judge Quinn—I will allow the question, but suggest that Mr. Hill allow the witness to first read the entry silently. I wish also to state that this line of testimony concerning entries in the ledger are admitted solely to refresh the memory of the witness and not as evidence in this case. They must serve the memory of the witness only.

Attorney Walsh then asked the court to strike out from the records the testimony by Spracklin yesterday in connection with the entries

8 ARRESTS IN DEVENS ARMY THEFT

Secret Service Men Raid Ayer House, Capture Two Brothers, Supply Dealers

Ayer, Nov. 9.—Secret service operators arrested eight Ayer residents today in connection with the wholesale theft of army blankets and supplies at the famous army camp.

They swooped down upon the home of two brothers at 2 o'clock this morning and marched them to the camp barefooted.

Then after taking two other men from their homes they arrested four B. & M. railroad employes, at the B. & Maine round house.

All are locked up in the army barracks and have been denied even a visit from lawyers pending an investigation of the theft which amounts to betwen $50,000 and $100,000.

Those arrested are: Moris and Jacob Slavsky of West Main street. They are in the army and navy reclaim goods business. Harry Schwartz, Harry Mead, Charles Towne, Lewis Gates, Patsy Ruggerio and Mike Rivetta.

RAID AT 2 A. M.

The Slavsky boys are sons of Samuel Slavsky, well known here. According to the boys' mother eight secret service men awakened them at 2 o'clock. They demanded admittance.

"Wait, we'll send for the chief of police,' I called down, when they told me who they were," said Mrs. Slavsky.

"To h—— with the chief of police,' they said, and then cut the telephone wire. Then they came in and took both my boys and my husband. They wouldn't even let them put their shoes on, but marched them barefoot to the camp."

The father was later released.

A Boston civilian is also sought

WIFE SHOT DOWN IN STREET BY HUSBAND

Mrs. Pasqualina Pizzadora was shot down by her husband, Antonio Pizzadora, as she passed on Savage street, East Boston, today.

Three shots from a 38-calibre revolver were fired, all of which struck the victim. She will die.

The shooting was witnessed by James H. Curran and Daniel F. O'Connell, firemen off duty, and Representative J. Frederick Cullin, who rushed upon Pizzadora, disarmed him and placed him under arrest.

The husband, who is sixty-six, and his wife, who is fifty-five, have been living apart for several weeks.

WOMAN NEAR DEATH, AUTO DRIVER HELD

An unidentified woman about 40 years old, and apparently from a home of refinement, was injured by an automobile today as she was attempting to cross the corner of Boylston and Ipswich streets. She is on the danger list at the Boston City Hospital with a fractured skull and multiple injuries.

At the Back Bay police station the police are holding Nelson H. Osse of No. 1249 Commonwealth ave.

LEADERS VIRTUALLY PRISONERS

General and Aides Are Barricaded in Brewhouse in Munich

Paris, Nov. 9.—The Inter-Allied Council of Ambassadors has been summoned to meet at five o'clock this afternoon to consider the situation in Germany.

Berlin, Nov. 9 (A.P.)—A dispatch to Reuter's says the outbreak in Munich has been suppressed. Former Police Chief Von Poehner, one of the leaders of the movement, who had been appointed one of the Governors of Bavaria, has been arrested.

General Ludendorff and Adolph Hitler have barricaded themselves in the Ministry of War building.

All the other buildings are held by the regular Bavarian government.

The latest advices from Munich indicate the Bavarian Dictator, Von Kahr and the Reichswehr Commander Von Lossow are not identified with the Ludendorff-Hitler Putsch

'BANDIT QUEEN' FREED BY FATHER, CAUGHT BY POLICE

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Anna Barron, alleged west-side "bandit queen," who is only sixteen years of age, threatened to kill her father unless he released her. She had managed to conceal a pistol in her clothing and her father, realizing she meant business, unlocked the chain by which he had fastened one of her ankles to a bed post.

Six hours later she was captured in a thrilling street battle with the police, after she and several youthful robbers had been holding up a number of pedestrians and automobile parties at the point of pistols and robbing them.

HELD UP BY THREE IN SOUTH BOSTON

John T. Payne, 13 Bells court, South Boston, reported to the police he was held up and robbed by three youths Wednesday night. The robbery, according to Payne's story, occurred in Old Colony avenue, near C street. Payne said the gunmen got $2. He described them as being about 20 years old, wearing dark suits, light caps and no overcoat. The blotter at Station 6 gives Payne's name as "J. J. Pyne," and his address "3 Bells Court."

ICE SLIDES INTO STREET; TAXI DOES A SHIMMY

Town Taxi No. 70,958 came shimmying down out of Court street into Scollay square early today, waltzed into the customary traffic jam in that busy spot, two-stepped up to seven-ton truck, which reversed off in dismay, and finally came to rest on the opposite curb.

"Here, what the—?" shouted the traffic cop, and then doubled up with explosions of mirth.

A cake of ice deposited in front of a drug store slid into the street as the taxi was passing. The front wheels straddled it, but the bulbous part of the rear axle, known to motor bugs as the differential housing, came to rest on top of the cake, lifting the rear wheels from the ground. The rest was simple.

B. & M. ENGINEER DIES ON TRAIN, FIREMAN GUIDES LOCOMOTIVE

Alton, N.H., Nov. 9.—While en route from Portsmouth, W. A. Yeaton, engineer on a Boston & Maine freight train, became seriously ill.

Taking the train in charge, Fireman Joseph Carville brought it in to this station and had Engineer Yeaton taken to a doctor's office. The physician pronounced the man dead.

Carville took the train on to its destination with the assistance of a brakeman, acting as fireman.

Yeaton was a veteran railroad man, having been with the Boston & Maine since 1885. His address could not be learned from Boston & Maine records, but he is believed to have resided in Dover.

300 WATCH MOVIES UNAWARE OF FIRE RAGING OVERHEAD

While a fire was in progress on the fourth floor of the Lancaster Theatre building at Lancaster and Causeway streets, in the West End, more than 300 persons witnessed the movie performance in the theatre unaware that the flames were being fought by firemen above them. Not until the performance had concluded and the patrons had left the theatre did they learn of the fire. The blaze started in an unoccupied apartment on the fourth floor of the building. The department managed to keep the blaze confined to the fourth floor. No one was injured.

WEDDING SAVES EX-HUSBAND OF DOT CLARK

Karl L. Elms, ex-husband of Dorothy Clark, the dancer and film star, and Alice Gerard of Auburndale, whose mother had her and Elms arrested, were married in New York on October 21.

Leo P. Doherty, Elms' attorney, made this fact known prior to the arraignment of Elms and his wife in the Newton Court today.

Elms was charged with enticing Miss Gerard from her home and living with her illegally at the Hemenway street home of his mother.

Attorney Doherty produced the marriage certificate of Elms and Miss Gerard, regularly attested and signed by Thomas J. Douglas and C. Waterman as witnesses.

He also had an attested copy of the annulment of her marriage to Elms secured by Dorothy Clark from Judge C. W. Guerin in the California courts.

The date of the annulment was September 18, 1923. The date of the complaint against Elms October 29 and against his wife October 31, both subsequent to the date of the marriage. The marriage was subsequent to the annulment. Attorney Doherty argued that the complaints against his clients was vacated by the proved facts of their legal marriage.

When this fact was presented to Judge Baker he dismissed the case against Elms and that for being a stubborn child against his wife, without opposition from Judge Sullivan of Dorchester, who appeared as counsel for Mrs. Gerard, mother of the bride, who was the complainant. The papers showed Elms to be twenty-four and his bride eighteen.

If Oxen Did It
Du Pont's Prediction
Crying Her Eyes Out
Army Happy—King Safe

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1923, by Star Company

IN A WILD WEST exhibition a dozen cows are turned into the arena; "wild cows" they are called. Cowboys with lassoes and empty beer bottles are turned loose with the cows. They lasso them, throw them down, sit on them, and the cowboy that first manages to fill his beer bottle with milk, no matter how, as the cow pants and struggles, receives a special reward.

To many civilized beings that seems all right.

WHAT SHOULD we say about a collection of oxen if they gave a similar exhibition, only turning human mothers into the arena instead of cows. We might criticize them severely for lack of delicate feeling.

MR. I. DU PONT, president of the great Du Pont Company and a trained scientist, predicts among future possibilities these:

SYNTHETIC FOOD, prepared by chemists taking the place of eggs, butter, milk, beef, etc.

ARTIFICIAL WOOL, which would make sheep unnecessary for their fleece, after doing away with the necessity for mutton.

Complete conquest of disease which would mean saving untold billions every year.

Storing up the heat of the sun, which would give free or very cheap light and power.

LIGHT WITHOUT ANY HEAT. The lightning bugs understand that now, we don't.

Great reduction in hours of sleep, adding four hours a day, twenty years on the average, to a man's working life.

An interesting program, but as every scientist will tell you, it does not begin to enumerate the possibilities.

BESSIE ROGERS gets a divorce because she has "been crying her eyes out" about her husband. And she is only twenty-three.

WHEN Napoleon III. was Emperor, some mysterious person repeatedly fastened to the tall column with Napoleon's statue on it, in the Place Vendome, verses which meant, "If all the blood that thou hast spilled could be gathered in this square, thou wouldst drink it without bending down."

That hurt the feelings of Napoleon III., proud of his great relation, but-it was true.

If you could gather together all the tears that women have shed, "crying their eyes out about their husbands," as Mrs. Bessie Rogers did, they would flood the whole of Chicago and overflow into the lake.

MUSSOLINI increases the pay of soldiers so that they are as well paid as civilian workers. That's an echo of old Rome. They took good care of soldiers in those ancient days that Mussolini admires and would bring back.

A contented army means a safer dictator.

The old plan was to give land to the old soldiers and whatever they could take to the young ones. Good pay probably will do as well.

THERE ARE many kinds of wealth in the United States—cotton, wheat, corn, gold, silver, iron, copper.

But the greatest crop of all is the crop of AMERICAN GIRLS. For what America IS to be, depends upon what THEY ARE.

The best possible crop news is found in the statistics of Vassar College. The college girl of today is nearly two inches taller than her sister of 1884. The modern girl weighs more, has a larger waist measurement, and greater lung capacity.

These statements mean stronger mothers, better babies, and therefore a greater country.

MORE IMPORTANT is the waist measurement, which has increased from an average of twenty-two to an average of twenty-five inches in young girls. Thirty inches would be better; strong muscles around the waist instead of a strong iron corset is what women want. Look at the Venus of Milo and you see the perfect type.

A WOMAN MEDIUM, quite sure that she could call spirits from the vasty deep and make them talk, is ordered by her husband not to make the tests before scientists.

He says the conditions would not be "psychic." Those conditions would do to demonstrate wireless telegraphy, the reality of messages by radio, chemical reactions or anything else, that actually happens.

Why scientists, so called, should dignify spooks and ghosts by suggesting foolish scientific "tests" is not easily understood.

As well offer a reward to anybody that will prove the truth of the story of "Jack the Giant Killer."

DIETER FACING GRAND JURY IN SCANDAL CASE

RICHARD DIETER AND CHILDREN

Ousted New York club employe whose arrest has revealed an alleged blackmail plot involving a clubman and a society woman. Dieter is said to be the "goat" of the plotters. He is shown here with his two children.

CLUB SPY BLACKMAIL 'TOOL'

Mrs. Stillman Will Fight Letter

CLUB SPY VICTIM OF 'PLOTTERS'

Grand Jury to Probe Story of Seized Letters in the Dieter Case

New York, Nov. 9.—An increasing tendency to believe that a blackmail plot was in the making when Richard Dieter, telephone operator of the Crescent Club, Brooklyn, disappeared last Saturday, was noticeable today in the offices of District Attorney Charles J. Dodd.

But the Prosecutor would make no comment other than to say that the Grand Jury, possibly next week, would receive all the evidence in the case to determine whether a criminal conspiracy existed.

Dieter spent his first full day since being brought back from Blackstone, Mass., recounting his adventures and declaring he had no intention of jumping into the East River. He said he left his cap and coat on the Manhattan Bridge promenade to make it appear that he had been driven to death by the demands of E. F. Jeffe, member of the club, for letters Jeffe had received from a Philadelphia woman and which he accused Dieter of piecing together and keeping.

KNEW OF LETTERS.

District Attorney Dodd said he had not been in communication with Mrs. Lois C. Robinson of Gywnedd, a suburb of Philadelphia, and that all he knew of her statement on the case was what he had read in the newspapers.

He confirmed the report that Mrs. Robinson's name was the one given to him by Jeffe, Mrs. White and others as the woman who wrote to Jeffe at the club and telephoned to him there several times.

Both Mrs. Robinson and her husband, Albany L. Robinson, a clerk in the Federal Income Tax Office in Philadelphia, were quoted as deriding stories that she was more than ordinarily friendly with Jeffe. Robinson said he knew the contents of every letter his wife wrote to Jeffe, and that he was aware she had met Jeffe in New York several times.

SHE IS IN FORESTS OF QUEBEC

Ex-Governor Miller of New York, Retained by Banker-Husband, Files Brief

New York, Nov. 9.—Mrs. James A. Stillman is expected back in this city within a few days to fight her husband's appeal to set aside the decision rendered against him, and to reiterate her denial of the authorship of some of the letters submitted to the Appellate Division as a basis for the appeal.

She was still unaware of her husband's publication of the so-called "confession letter," in which her alleged relations with Fred K Beaulieu, half-breed Indian guide are disclosed. Grand Anse, Mrs. Stillman's lodge in the Quebec forests is thirty-five miles from the nearest railroad and is without telephone communication.

A message giving her the news is on its way, but cannot reach her before tomorrow night at the earliest. Its course is by way of Montreal, Three Rivers, and thence by motor-boat up the St. Maurice River. Mrs. Stillman probably will utilize the motor-boat to reach the railhead for the trip back to New York.

EX-GOVERNOR HIRED.

Ex-Governor Nathan L. Miller has been retained by Mr. Stillman to head the legal battalion which will argue before the Appellate Division in Brooklyn that Mrs. Stillman's victory was against the weight of evidence.

Ex-Governor Miller, who will be aided by William Rand, Cornelius J. Sullivan and Outerbridge Horsey, has filed a fifty-page brief, reviewing the case and commenting on the rulings of Surrogate Daniel J. Gleason of Poughkeepsie, referee in the case, and those made by Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser.

Argument on the appeal is scheduled for the week beginning Dec. 3.

"We are confident as ever," said John E. Mack, of Poughkeepsie, guardian ad litem for Guy Stillman. The so-call 'confession' letter was

Uncle and His Niece, Married Here, Convicted

Esa G. Ashey and his wife Theresa D. Benedict Ashey, natives of Damascus, Palestine, were found guilty by a jury in the Superior Criminal Court of violating a statute of Massachusetts forbidding marriages within specified degrees of consanguinity, Mrs. Ashey is the daughter by a second husband of Ashey's sister.

To settle the question whether the law applies to a niece of half blood, the case will go to the full bench of the Supreme Court. No similar conviction has ever been had in Massachusetts. The Asheys were married early in December last, and live at No. 133 Hudson street.

"Al" Smith Takes Rest

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 9.—Gov. Smith of New York and a party of nine friends, including some state officials arrived here and motored to the Sea View Golf Club where the Governor will take a week's vacation.

RICH SPOUSE BIGAMIST, SAYS FILM ACTRESS

Philadelphia, Nov. 9.—William Weightman, 3d, scion of a wealthy Philadelphia family, was charged with bigamy in a suit alleging non-support brought by his wife, Mrs. Marie Paul Weightman, a former motion picture actress.

The bill charges that Weightman contracted a bigamous marriage with Lucy McCready, sixteen years old, on July 4, 1921, in Oswego, N. Y.

W. Weightman, 3d

Mrs. Weightman said she was married September 7, 1911, and that he deserted her in December, 1916, "without cause." She came from Los Angeles to enter the suit and is at present employed in a local department store. She said she had sold her jewels, mortgaged her home in the Pacific Coast city and spent all her savings to help her husband out of financial troubles.

Weightman, whose whereabouts are unknown here, is a grandson of the late William Weightman, founder of the chemical firm of Powers Weightman-Rosengarten Company. The founder left an estate valued at $50,000,000, and it was said the grandson was the beneficiary of a large sum placed in trust by relatives.

SWEDEN HONORS CAPE COD ARTIST

Provincetown, Nov. 9.—Charles A. Kaelin, president of the Provincetown Art Association, and a resident of the artists' colony here, has received a communication informing him that his painting, "Portuguese Mother and Child," has been purchased by the Swedish government, being chosen from among 160 other paintings by Swedish-American artists.

The purchase of the painting by the Swedish government is regarded as a high artistic honor to be paid any member of the local colony in years.

PALLBEARERS NAMED, WOMAN TAKES POISON

Pittsfield, Nov. 9.—Gossip said Mrs. Louise B. Sayre of Monterey was in love with Julius Miner the postmaster but that he frowned on her love.

Miner was shot two weeks ago.

Immediately gossip connected Mrs. Sayre with the shooting.

"I couldn't stand it any longer," scribbled Mrs. Sayre in a farewell note, after which she swallowed poison.

She is in a hospital and will live.

In attempting to die she wrote that she had no knowledge of the shooting of the postmaster. She also named the pallbearers she desired at her funeral.

PROBATION FAILS; DOROTHY GETS A YEAR

After being put on probation in Providence, Lynn, Lawrence, Quincy and Boston for small larceny, Dorothy Drake has been sent to the House of the Good Shepherd for one year.

Dorothy Drake.

Dotty just couldn't keep out of trouble. Her final scrape was the larceny of a tailor's watch. She and her husband and one Alfred Johnson were the principals in this affair. The husband, Thomas Morgan, was given six months, and Johnson was sent back to Shirley, where he was on parole.

WIFE ASKS PITY, BUT SHE GETS JAIL INSTEAD

New York, Nov. 9.—When Joan Paton of Chicago, in the early twenties, clad quite simply, was brought before Magistrate Oberwager in Essex Market Court charged with attempted grand larceny of a $90 fur coat, she gave the judge a letter which read in part:

"I am a stranger in New York. I have been here about two weeks. My husband is the only one that can help me, and he refuses to do so. He wants a divorce, and I am convinced he can get it. I am about to become a mother. Please help me.

"JOAN PATON."

Sigmund Schwartz, a furrier, charged that the woman entered his store, tried on a squirrel coat, and attempted to walk out without paying for it.

She said the coat in question was given her by her husband; that she saw one like it in Schwartz's window, walked in to price it, and Schwartz refused to let her leave with her own garment.

Mrs. Paton alleged that her husband Robert, an artist, had deserted her and refused to give her the $75 a week which a Chicago court had ordered when she brought non-support charges against him. She explained very quietly:

"He's here, somewhere in New York. But he won't help me, and I haven't a friend on earth, your honor."

When Magistrate Oberwager found her guilty of disorderly conduct she fainted.

Magistrate Oberwager said:

"I am trying to help you. If the probation officers find your story true, something may be done for you. I am committing you to jail for your own good."

3 BOYS STEAL $220 FROM GREEK CHURCH

When last Sunday's collection at the Orthodox Greek Catholic Church, Winchester street, South End, disappeared along with altar vessels of gold, police were called in to investigate.

Today they arrested three boys charged with the theft. They are Joseph Gulvin, 12 years old, 21 Moreose street; John G. Harrington, 17, 13 Corning street, and John O'Leary, 17, 61 Andrew street, all of the South End.

They were arraigned in municipal court today. Police say they confessed. Theft totalled $220.

FREE LUNCH GRABBER LEAVES $42,698

New York, Nov. 9.—"Silent Emil" Leopold, a familiar figure at every free lunch counter on the Bowery in other days, died in a drab furnished room, four months ago, apparently a pauper.

In surrogate's court an accounting of his estate, valued at $42,689, was filed.

Ten nieces and nephews in Germany, the next of kin, will share equally in the estate.

GIRL GETS EVEN WITH COP! YES, SHE MARRIES HIM!

New York, Nov. 8.—Speed and possibly a desire for revenge characterized the romance which placed a New York traffic cop and a fair Brooklyn victim aboard a boat today, Bermuda-bound, on their honeymoon.

The bridegroom, Walter Meyer, almost burned a tire off his motorcycle six months ago when he pursued a snorting roadster through Brooklyn streets. He caught it and handed its driver, Miss Margaret Steeber, twenty-two, a summons for speeding.

"I'll get even with you," she told the city Meyer after the court had fined her $25. "You'll pay this fine yet." Now they are married.

Philadelphia—Philadelphia City Council today passed a resolution protesting against the proposed merger of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway with the New York Central Railroad. That such a consolidation would tend to cripple the shipping facilities of the city.

8 ARRESTED IN ARMY THEFTS

by Federal authorities for questioning in connection with the theft.

Authorities conducting the investigation refused to make any specific statement relative to the Boston man other than to say that he is wanted, and that "eight or ten warrants have been issued."

The stolen supplies are believed to be cached within about eight miles of Camp Devens.

The supplies, including 6,000 army blankets, 5,000 army shirts, several hundred pairs of army shoes, and a vast store of miscellaneous army goods were stolen from Warehouse No. 3 in Camp Devens since last February. Six soldiers are under military arrest.

THEFTS AT NIGHT

Under cover of night, according to official sources, the goods were carried or dragged in horse to a rendezvous in the woods near the camp, from where motor trucks carried them to the cache.

Assistant United States Attorney John V. Sullivan, in charge of the investigation for the government, obtained warrants from the Federal Commissioner in Lowell for the civil arrest of six men in connection with the wholesale robbery. These warrants were to be served today.

ROADS WERE GUARDED

In October, 1922, the 18th Infantry regiment was sent to Camp Devens, ostensibly to dismantle certain buildings and barracks that have been in disuse since the war.

These troops, it was learned, instead of wrecking buildings, were detailed to guard the various roads and avenues leading into the camp.

This action is believed in some circles to indicate that the camp officials were aware of thefts from army storehouses as early as October, 1922, and that the regiment was sent to Camp Devens to prevent further depredations.

SECRET SERVICE PROBE.

So far as is known, however, no official report of stolen goods was made until February of this year. Since that date, secret service agents from Washington have been at Camp Devens conducting an investigation.

Major Rich, post commander at Camp Devens, refused to discuss the matter. Through a personal representative, he admitted, however, that revelations in the wholesale robbery may be made today, and that following the developments he would probably issue a formal statement on the subject of the thefts.

DESERTER SOUGHT

Among the men sought in connection with the thefts is a Stamford, Ct., soldier, who deserted from Camp Devens after the investigations began.

Guard lines about the camp have been strengthened and are said to be more strict than during wartime. All civilians, except those with special permits, are barred from entering the camp.

Automobiles entering the camp are under guard during their visit. Wartime orders of "call halt" three times and then shoot if not obeyed" are said to be in force with soldiers on night sentry duty.

GALE HOSPITAL DROPS DEADHEADS

Haverhill, Nov. 9—People with money who occupy private rooms at Gale Hospital, a city institution, and who have not been paying their bills, will be out of luck in the future. Members of the city council who are trustees of the hospital, at a meeting, decided to inform all staff physicians, that people who could afford to pay for their rooms would have to come across. The Council discussed the matter of taking legal action against patients who would not pay.

SOMERVILLE OFFICIALS OPPOSE FARE RAISE

The Somerville Board of Aldermen at the regular weekly meeting adopted resolutions opposing the 20 per cent. increase in railroad commutation ticket rates asked for by the railroads in Massachusetts.

"This board is of the opinion," says the resolution, "that the contemplated increase in commutation rates to points within the fifteen-mile radius of Boston should not prevail."

A copy of the resolution has been mailed to the State Department of Public Utilities.

HOLYOKE PONDERS ANNEXING 2 TOWNS

Holyoke, Nov. 9.—The directors of the Chamber of Commerce have invited Mayor John F. Cronin and E. N. White, chairman of the Holyoke Planning Board; Fred M. Smith, of South Hadley Falls, and Stanislaus Ducharme of Willimansett to meet with them on Monday night to discuss plans for the annexation of South Hadley and Willimansett to Holyoke.

Pittsfield, Nov. 9.—William Sposato, seventeen, is undergoing an operation in Boyland Memorial Hospital to have his left arm separated from his body. He was severely burned more than two years ago and has been compelled to lie flat on his back since then. During convalescence the arm adhered to the body.

LOVE SUIT MONEY CANNOT BE TAXED

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Money paid as damages in cases of promise actions is not a taxable asset of the recipient and is free from income tax payment, according to Mrs. Mabel G. Reinecke, collector of internal revenue.

A promise to marry is a personal right not susceptible to any appraisal in relation to market value and payments in compromise of invasion of such right do not constitute taxable assets, Mrs. Reinecke says.

WOMAN DYING IN AUTO CRASH

nue, who the police say was driving the car, and ran away after striking the woman. The police allege that Oser was under the influence of liquor.

Witnesses gave the police information, and Lieutenant McKinnon, working with the Brighton police went to the garage of Oser where they placed him under arrest.

The injured woman is described as forty years old, five feet five inches tall, weight 160 pounds, blonde hair, brown eyes and light complexion. She bore a brown dress and brown hat and dark velour coat, black shoes and stockings.

WIFE SHOT DOWN IN STREET

When they met today Antonio asked his wife to forgive him and return to him. She was heard to reply that she had forgiven him too many times.

She turned to go away and had walked about fifteen feet when Antonio fired the first shot, which took effect in Pasqualina's neck. Antonio expected her to fall and hesitated.

He then fired a second shot, which took effect in his wife's right leg. As she still did not fall, he walked toward her. She turned, and from a distance of one foot he fired a third shot, into her forehead.

By this time Curran, O'Connell and Curtin had reached him and disarmed him. Mrs. Pizzadora was taken to the Relief Hospital, and Antonio was turned over to the police.

MRS. ROSITA FORBES.

Mrs. Rosita Forbes, noted English explorer and the only white woman to have visited the stronghold of Raisuli, the notorious Moroccan bandit, was decorated in Paris with the grand gold medal of the French Geographical Society. The decoration followed a lecture by Mrs. Forbes, in which she told of her recent experiences in Morocco, and discussed the bandit Raisuli relative to his political power in the African province.

'Barber Pole' Shoes Latest Paris Fad for Women

Paris, Nov. 9.—"Barber pole" shoes are the latest fad in Paris for women.

Any Parisienne who appears at an evening function with shoes of less than five colors is considered—and treated—as an outcast.

The latest style of shoes reveals more of the foot than they conceal and are made up of the following colors—red, black, green, blue, purple and gray.

CARNEGIE FUND TO FIGHT PYHROHHEA

San Francisco, Nov. 9 (C.N.S.).—Pyhrohhea, dread enemy of the human gums and teeth is to be definitely fought at the University of California by world famous scientists in an effort to banish forever this main aide to dental decay. Announcement to this effect has been made following bestowing of a fund of $85,000 on the university by the Carnegie Foundation for continuation of successful intermediate experiments in the study of the causes of the disease and suitable counteractive agents.

RAIL STRIKERS NOW FACE DISCHARGE

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 9.—Striking firemen and engineers on The Virginian Railway, who gave no indication today of yielding in their dispute with the company, which refused in the walkout yesterday, face permanent dismissal from service unless they report for duty by 8 a. m. tomorrow.

This ultimatum was issued by C. H. Hix, vice president, to the strikers.

He said the railway labor board, which had ordered the men to delay action in the dispute over the discharge of several employes pending a hearing before it November 14, had authorized him to do "anything necessary to continue operation of this road."

AUTO INJURES TWO WOMEN, DRIVER BLAMES SNOWSTORM

The first snow storm accident of the season occurred on the Mt. Auburn bridge in East Watertown, where two women were struck by an automobile. They were Miss Henrietta Day and Mrs. O. S. Upham, both of 35 Parker street, Watertown. Miss Day was taken to the Cambridge City Hospital where it is thought she has a fracture of the skull. Mrs. Upham was shaken up and after being treated by a physician, was taken home.

The driver of the automobile was John A. Austin, a Metropolitan Park police officer, of No. 32 Holworthy street, Cambridge. He said he could not see the women because of the snow on the windshield and because the street lights in the vicinity were out of commission.

SLIGHT HOPE FOR RECOVERY OF FORMER MAYOR HAINES

In a letter from Mrs. Benjamin F. Haines, wife of the former Mayor of Medford, who is in a sanitarium in Florida, received by a close friend in that city, it is stated he is in very poor shape and there is but scant hope for him. The former Mayor came North a few weeks ago to plead to a Middlesex indictment in connection with transactions during his term of office, but was forced to return South at once.

Paris.—General John J. Pershing was received in audience today by Premier Poincare. General Pershing has been inspecting American military cemeteries along the western battlefront.

WOMAN TAKES DOGS TO BED, FOILS COPS

Brattleboro, Vt., Nov. 9.—Mrs. John Buckley of Whitingham played the role of Lady Godiva in that town to save her two dogs from being shot to death by town police.

When the town officials appeared at her home with a warrant calling for the seizure of the dogs on a complaint that they had been killing sheep, Mrs. Buckley quickly disrobed and took the two animals to bed with her.

From under the covers of the bed she dared the officials to disturb her. Nonplussed, they left the house.

Today it was reported that Mrs. Buckley had smuggled the dogs into Massachusetts.

AUTO TIRE DEALER GUILTY OF FRAUDULENT ADVERTISING

Max Katz, treasurer of the Merchants' Tire Company of No. 378 Columbus avenue was found guilty on four counts for fraudulent advertising in Suffolk Superior Criminal Court. Judge Keating suspended sentence on three counts and fined Katz $50 on one count. Katz, indicted by the Grand Jury on Tuesday, advertised, it was proven, in a local newspaper, offering Fisk and Adax tires for sale, representing them to be "stamped seconds, but perfect in every respect." Members of the Boston Better Business Commission were witnesses for the government.

RACING CAR KNOCKS WOMAN 40 FEET AND DASHES AWAY

Lawrence, Nov. 9.—A red racing car speeding through Main street, Andover, at midnight struck a woman, knocked her forty feet and, leaving her dying, fled into the night.

The woman is at the Lawrence General Hospital. Her death, doctors say, is but a matter of hours.

She is Margaret Phillips, thirty years old, employed at the home of Bradford Lewis, Hidden road, Andover.

She had been visiting a woman friend. The woman accompanied her to Main street, where she stood to signal a trolley car when the red racer struck her.

Police have not discovered the identity of the car's driver.

MORE POWER TO STATE AND CITY RUM OFFICERS

Washington, Nov. 9 (I.N.S.).—Federal prohibition officials today sought to fix larger responsibility upon State officers for Volstead law enforcement by authorizing State and municipal officials to make inspections of breweries, whiskey and alcohol distilleries and of all other concerns legally permitted to manufacture, sell or buy liquors.

All liquor permits granted by the government for 1924 will contain a provision authorizing inspections by State and municipal officers. This is a sweeping departure from the former policy under which only Federal internal revenue or prohibition enforcement agents made such inspections.

Roxbury Baby Not Two Years Old Eats Steak

While most babies are contented with a milk diet, James Daniel Mackay, fourteen months old, of No. 13 North avenue, Roxbury, insists on a good-sized piece of steak for his noon day meal.

Although he has only six teeth, he enjoys his meal of meat and vegetables as well as the grown members of the family. His mother, Mrs. James Z. Mackay, thinks her child's ability to eat hearty food may account for his tipping the scales at 50 pounds.

Memphis.—The Ku Klux Klan suffered defeat in the municipal election when the present city commission, including the Mayor and four commissioners, was returned to power. Mayor Rowlett Paine was re-elected.

BOYS TRAILING GIRLS TAKEN BY POLICE

Anthony Cassidy, son of James Cassidy of the Cambridge School Board, a Harvard student, and Morrough P. O'Brien, a Tech student of No. 945 Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, ended a round of pleasure begun in a dance hall in the Central Square police station.

According to the police, the two youths went to a dance hall on Massachusetts avenue, Cambridge, where they flirted with two girls but did not succeed in persuading the girls to go motoring with them.

The girls left the hall, and the boys followed, the police said, and meeting them on the street, pointed out the pleasures of a spin in a flivver. The girls again refused, and started home, the boys following in their car.

Near the Memorial Driveway, Patrolman J. H. McCaffrey of the Cambridge police noticed the flivver had no tail light, and became suspicious when he saw the car advancing slowly by the curbing parallel to the two girls.

At the Central square police station Cassidy was arrested for driving a car without a license, and for driving without a tail light. He was released on $100 bail. O'Brien was not arrested. He explained that he and five others owned the car, and that they drove the car in turns as each had funds to buy gasoline.

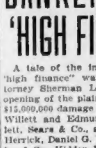
BOY DAZED BY INJURY FOUND ON GRIDIRON

Carl Lovett, an eighteen-year-old school boy, was found in a semi-conscious condition on the football field of the Everett High School several hours after the game played here had finished. Examination by a physician showed that he had two broken ribs and possible internal injuries.

After treatment at his home at No. 25 Dyer avenue, he was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital. Lovett was unable to explain how he was hurt.

WHIPPLE RAPS BANKERS FOR 'HIGH FINANCE'

A tale of the inside workings of "high finance" was related by Attorney Sherman L. Whipple in his opening of the plaintiff's case in the $15,000,000 damage suit of George F. Willett and Edmund Sears of Willett, Sears & Co., against Robert F. Herrick, Daniel G. Wing, F. S. Moseley & Co., Kidder, Peabody and Company and the Chase National Bank, before Judge Callahan and a jury in the Norfolk county superior court at Dedham.



S. L. Whipple.

The plaintiffs allege that the defendants entered into a conspiracy to deprive the plaintiffs of their share of the stock in the American Felt Company and the Daniel Green Felt Company, and succeeded in acquiring virtually all the plaintiff's stock in those companies without substantial cost to themselves. The stock, the plaintiffs allege was worth about $10,000,000.

SECURITY FOR LOAN.

It was 16,500 shares of this same stock, Attorney Whipple declared to the jury, that had been put up as security with the Chase National Bank of New York for a loan of $400,000.

And here comes some of the high finance workings as told by Mr. Whipple.

In 1918, Attorney Whipple said, the Willett-Sears combination arranged with five Boston banks to raise a special loan of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 to finance some excellent war contracts obtained by the Felt concerns. When the arrangements had been made and Willett-Sears thought they would get the money they are told by Daniel Wing of the First National Bank they would have to take care of the notes for $400,000 held by the Chase National Bank of New York, or the loan could not go through.

Mr. Whipple declared that he will prove by testimony and evidence that E. V. Thayer of the Chase National Bank agreed to extend the notes for $400,000 if Mr. Willett would give him an option on 16,500 shares of stock in the American Felt Company at only $5 a share. "That stock was figured to be worth millions by Mr. Willett," declared Attorney Whipple.

Mr. Whipple went on to say that he will show by evidence that the respondents finally succeeded in getting the stock in the two concerns and the management as well for but mere fraction of what it was worth

LEGION TO CONDUCT FIFTH VICTORY BALL

Both halls in Hibernian Building, Roxbury, have been engaged by Roxbury Post, No. 44, The American Legion, for the Fifth Annual Victory Ball, to be held on next Monday evening.

Mary Murphy

Every year a big special feature is planned, and the attraction this year will be the presence of the four principals and some of the chorus of the "Sally, Irene and Mary" Company.

A committee of one hundred with Past Commander Thomas A. Donnelly, chairman; Miss Helen Canty, secretary; and David Luft, treasurer, together with members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, are making every effort to bring together the largest social gathering that Roxbury has ever seen. Miss Mary Murphy is one of the committee in charge.

The proceeds will be applied to a permanent home, where the Post's reputation for hospitality can be more widely exhibited.

"BUTTERFLY" IS GIVEN BY OPERA COMPANY

By ZOE FABER

Last night at the Boston Opera House, Puccin's "Madame Butterfly" was given by the San Carlo Opera Company before a house that was not very large. The title role was sung by one Madame Haru Onuki, Suzuki by Stella Demetz; Pinkerton by Onofre, and Sharpless by Mario Valle.

Madame Onuki was a charming figure, who lent much to the effect of the whole. She is as attractive as a lovely Japanese panel, but the entire charm is in her personality, her delightful gestures and her exceeding grace of movement. For the rest, she is lacking. The voice, which was only average to begin with, has been strained until it sounds frayed. Now and then there was a low, soft tone of sweetness to show what had been, but unfortunately, these intervals were rare.

The opera was followed by ballet divertissements.

"The Jewels of the Madonna" will be given tonight with Bianca Saroya and Stella Demette.

HOME FOR AGED ON MELROSE ESTATE

The estate of Miss E. Gertruds Copeland, Lake avenue, Melrose, has been acquired by the Fitch Home for Elderly Persons and will be remodelled and occupied by the Spring.

It is a fine type of the old New England homestead and finely located. The house was erected in 1849.

Built on value — Filene's — Growing on value

Fur cuffs as well as collars on women's striped or plaided topcoats $35

One of two styles in fur-trimmed coats in the inexpensive coat shop at $35.

THE fur of the hardy little American opossum has been dyed dark brown for the fur collars and cuffs of these plaided topcoats. We say "hardy" advisedly—for it's a fur that stands up well under constant wear.

The coats are both lined and interlined for warmth. The plaids and stripes are of the subdued sort that appeal to women of conservative taste.

All in all they are coats quite worthy of the inexpensive coat shop—where VALUE is the keynote—and where you find —fur collared coats as low as $19.75.

—striped and plaided topcoats of warm, woolly fabrics, $25.
—and several styles of silk lined bolivia coats at $35.

Coats by the score in the other coat shops for women—with especially "strong" lines of fur-trimmed pile fabric coats at $75, $100, and $115—not forgetting the luxurious "one-of-a-kind" coats ranging up to $395.

(Filene's—no mail nor telephone orders filled—fifth floor)

Those $2 English broadcloth overblouses caused such a "flurry" —we had to wire for more!

—and we don't think you'll wonder at it when you examine them—their "tubbing" qualities are justly praised. The embroidery on collars and cuffs especially proclaims VALUE; sizes 36 to 42, $2.

Other English broadcloth blouses—including some of bisque and gray—$2 to $8.75.

(Filene's—mail and telephone orders filled—fifth floor)

Knitted dresses with panels of matching fibre, $25

They give the slim, boyish line, because the eye follows the straight line from neck to hem. Navy, tan or brown.

Another style at $25 in contrasting color combinations. Others, $29.50 and $35. Sizes 36 to 42 inclusive.

(Filene's—mail and telephone orders filled—sixth floor)

"Invisible" plaid dresses a new fashion note in the Women's Inexpensive Dress Shop, $22.50

So many women do not care for the bright plaids, and for them the Inexpensive Dress Shop has some new frocks like the sketch, with the plaids "dimmed down."

Tan-with-brown, and gray-with-black.

Other plaid and checked dresses are priced in this Shop at $16.50 and $22.50.

(Filene's—mail and telephone orders filled—sixth floor)

Brown "pipings" on women's camel's hair color skirts, $5.75

Two styles of wrap-around skirts of soft woolly camel's hair color trimmed with brown; sizes 26 to 34, $5.75. Other camel's hair color skirts up to $18.50.

MAYOR CURLEY TO WELCOME GEN. HALLER

General Josef Haller, Commander-in-Chief of the Armies of Poland, against whom protests have been received by Mayor Curley urging him not to receive him officially when he arrives here November 30, will be welcomed nevertheless at City Hall should he desire to call.

Mayor Curley made this announcement after giving a hearing to the Ukranians who made the protest, because he deemed it his duty as chief executive of the city, since Haller is here as the official guest of the American Legion, and has already been received by President Coolidge and will be entertained by Governor Cox.

BANDITS HALT FARMER ROUTED BY PISTOL

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 9.—A. C. Meade, a farmer, living on Strafford ridge, had a thrilling experience as he was motoring on the Newbury-port turnpike on his way home from work.

Two men suddenly appeared by the roadside and Mr. Meade was compelled to stop his car, which he did. One of the strangers stepped to the side of the car and asked for a match. Mr. Meade told him that he had no matches, whereupon the man told him to hand over his pocketbook.

Mr. Meade had a pistol which he had placed beside him on the seat of the car a short time before. He seized the weapon and pointed it at the men who beat a hasty retreat.

ARABIC DUE TO ARRIVE MONDAY

Speeding toward Boston from Mediterranean ports and the Azores with more than 1,760 passengers, the White Star Line steamship Arabic will arrive here Monday morning on her first voyage in the local service recently a year. She will berth at Commonwealth Pier, South Boston.

The liner's list comprises 43 first, 23 second and 1471 third class passengers, the latter group being made up principally of immigrants.

WIDOW LEAVES OLD CHUM A MILLION

Chicago, Nov. 9.—Friendship that extended over a lifetime was heralded in the will of Mrs. Anna E. Wisner, formerly of New York. She left an estate of $1,210,000, the bulk of it to her friend, Mrs. Anna Buck-ley Dunlap.

The widows had lived together for many years. Mrs. Wisner was the widow of Albert Wisner, noted in New York for philanthropy.

FORMER PRINCESS VICTORIA

QUEEN WITHOUT COUNTRY LOSES BIG LEGACY

Paris, Nov. 9.—The ex-Queen of Portugal, formerly Princess Victoria de Hohenzoulern, is today a "woman without a country," and is also "out" three million lire—nearly $600,000—merely because, at the time of her marriage to King Manuel of Portugal, she refused to sign her name to marriage papers.

She refused to sign the papers tendered her by the Portuguese consul in Berlin ah that time. Now that she and the King have been ousted from the throne, she is repudiated as a citizen of Portugal.

On the other hand, the German government has ruled that Victoria lost her German citizenship when she married Manuel.

And now, after an Italian multi-millionaire has died and left three million lire to the two Portuguese rulers, Victoria cannot collect her share because she cannot prove that she is a Portuguese citizen.

Oil Price Cut

Dallas, Nov. 9 (C.N.S.).—In line with crude oil cuts announced by various companies in the mid-continent field, the Magnolia Petroleum Company, a Standard Oil unit, today posted reductions of 10 to 15 cents a barrel on certain grades of mid-continent oil, making the new prices 40 cents to $1.25 a barrel.

SLIGHT EARTHQUAKE FELT IN SOUTH GROVELAND

Haverhill, Nov. 9.—An earth tremor in which kettles rattled on stoves, and housewives thought that heavy auto trucks were racing over roofs were heard in South Groveland. Repeated rumblings were reported, but no damage resulted. Residents at first believed that water pipes were bursting, and some were frightened when the foundation of their houses began to shake.

Havana — The steamer Inglaterra, which went aground several days ago near Nassau while on her maiden voyage to Cuba, has parted in the middle and is a total loss, according to information received by the owners of the vessel today.

Rambler Roses and Pansies Blooming at Westfield

Westfield, Nov. 9.—Pansies and strawberry blossoms were picked, on the coldest day of the Fall, in the garden of Sheriff Leroy C. Coburn of Franklin street. Rambler roses have started to bloom forth at the home of Mrs. Nan Moseley of Chestnut street.

BOSTON'S FIRST SNOWFALL LIGHT AND QUICKLY MELTS

Thousands of children with their thoughts on coasting and sleighing peered through the windows of their homes to greet the first snow fall of the Winter to strike Boston.

They were disappointed, however, if they expected the snow to pile up for the silvery flakes quickly melted. Colder weather and probably more snow is the weather bureau's prediction for today, and Bostonians may well get ready their galoshes, rubbers and other Winter paraphernalia. Snow was also reported in Portland, Me., and in Northfield, Vt., with general cloudy weather all through New England.

CHARACTER

The CHARACTER of the store in which you buy your furniture has a lot to do with the furniture itself. Ask yourself these questions—then buy. Is the store a substantial store? Is its merchandise substantial? Is the price consistent with the quality? Is it possible for me to get my money back if furniture is unsatisfactory? If you can answer Yes to these questions you have a store of "CHARACTER," clean, reliable and dependable. Ferdinand's has stood this test for 54 years.

PORTLAND ORDERS QUIET CELEBRATION

Portland, Me., Nov. 9.—Chief of Police I. S. Watts has served notice on the public of this city generally that "any person or persons" found on the streets throwing talcum powder, confetti or anything else that "would damage clothing," or discharging firearms on Armistice Day will be immediately arrested and put before the court.

JAMES O'NEILL DIES IN TRENTON HOSPITAL

New London, Conn., Nov. 9.—Word was received here of the death of James O'Neill, forty-six, son of the famous actor, the late James O'Neill, and brother of Eugene O'Neill, the playwright. He died in a Trenton, N. J., hospital.

Mr. O'Neill had appeared on the stage in legitimate productions for a number of years.

ABANDONED BOY BABY FINDS 'MOTHER'

A chubby, blue-eyed baby boy, abandoned on a Providence door step by his parents, smiled and gurgled his way into the affections of Mrs. James R. Sheldon, a guest at the Hotel Savoy in Boston.

"If you cannot be my mother or daddy, please find one for me," was the text of the note pinned to the abandoned baby, and printed in the Boston newspapers. It struck a responsive chord in the heart of Mrs. Sheldon.

WANTS TO ADOPT BABY.

She hurried to Providence and to the Doyle Avenue Home, where the foundling had been taken.

"The darling! Give him to me and I'll adopt him. At last I shall have a real Christmas in my home and a baby for my Christmas tree," she exclaimed when the baby was brought to her.

For six years, Mrs. Sheldon has earnestly wished for a baby. She is now preparing to take legal steps to satisfy her desire for motherhood.

POLICE SEEK PARENTS.

Providence police are searching for the parents of the infant.

Mrs. Sheldon's home is in Paterson, N. J. Her husband, James R. Sheldon, an accountant for the First National Pictures Corporation, is in Boston on business.

The baby was abandoned Tuesday on the doorstep of Mary L. Wilcox, No. 18 Brown street, Providence. A note pinned to his clothes stated he was born on March 4 of this year.

JEWELERS FOR OVER 100 YEARS

"FORGET-ME-NOT" DRIVE ON TODAY

Five hundred girls, under the direction of Mrs. Nathaniel F. Emmons, turned out this morning, each carrying a basket of blue forget-me-nots in one hand and a coin container in the other, to work for the fund to be raised for the benefit of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

To aid the drive, a fleet of planes from the East Boston Airport covered the entire district and dropped showers of printed fliers labelled: "Wear a forget-me-not; November 9 and 10."

The drive committee announces that the advance fund subscribed has reached $1102.

Mystery in Attack

MRS. IDA M. LESLIE.

Wealthy widow and former actress at whose country estate, Sound Beach, Ct., rich New York chemist was mysteriously shot. Mrs. Leslie believes robbery was the motive, for she herself was attacked before her elderly suitor was shot by presumed gunmen.

HIT BY AUTO, BOY'S SPINE FRACTURED

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 9.—Rudolph Andrews, 17, of Beverly, Mass., lies in a bed at the Sacred Heart Hospital with a fractured spine. Walking northward along the boulevard leading from Manchester to Concord, Andrews was struck by the nearside of an automobile.

DETROIT TO UNFURL LARGEST U. S. FLAG

Detroit, Nov. 9.—On Armistice Day the Detroit Boy Scouts will unfurl what is claimed to be the largest American flag in the country. It is 90x150 feet. It weighs 600 pounds, and 1,261 yards of red, white and blue material were used in its making. The next largest flag is one in St. Louis, which is 78x150 feet.

RICH CHEMIST 'DOES NOT KNOW WHO SHOT HIM'

Greenwich, Ct., Nov. 9. (Universal)—Judge James F. Walsh, prosecuting attorney of Greenwich, who interviewed Milton J. Maas, a wealthy New York chemist, who was shot in the home of Mrs. Ida M. Leslie, Lodge road, Sound Beach, on the night of October 11, reveals no new clues to the motive of the crime and the identity of the gunmen.

At the Stamford Hospital when questioned by Prosecutor Walsh, Maas adhered to his original story that a man, garbed in a raincoat, approached him from the left side of the porch of Mrs. Leslie's home, when he ran out in answer to her screams for help. He said the man shot him down without warning and that he would not be able to recognize him again if he saw him. He could shed no further light whatever on the shooting.

Maas, who has entirely recovered from his wounds, has been released from the hospital after being confined there almost a month.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE NEEDS FUNDS

"Rescuing dogs and cats from Boston streets and alleys is an important item in sanitation as well as being humane," declares Mrs. Huntington Smith, president of the Animal Rescue League. During the past Spring and Summer, the league received and cared for 24,358 animals in Greater Boston, including 25,538 cats, 2,881 dogs, 227 horses and 208 smaller animals.

Mrs. H. Smith

"The expenses of this league have been greatly increased by our enforced rebuilding on account of putting through Stuart street," explained Mrs. Smith. "We need $10,000 for this year's work and will hold a fair in the Copley-Plaza, December 3-4."

PRISONER THREATENS WIFE OF ACCUSER IN COURT

Salvatore Divano of East Watertown, on trial in Middlesex Superior Criminal Court, on a charge of assault with intent to murder Fred Venia of No. 101 Arlington street, East Watertown, caused considerable excitement in court when he threatened Mrs. Mary Venia, wife of the plaintiff. Venia was testifying against his alleged assailant when the defendant attempted to jump from his chair and began muttering threats at Mrs. Venia. Several court officers rushed to his side and ordered him to remain quiet.

Venia testified that on the night of April 23, 1923, Divano came to his door and ordered him to let him in saying: "The time has come for you to die and I must kill you." Venia said that he refused to let Divano into his home and that he then went to the window to see if Divano had left, whereupon Divano fired three shots at him. None of them hit the mark, he said.

LITTLE MOUSE PUTS PALL ON CAMBRIDGE

Sabotage on the part of a playful mouse threw Cambridge streets into total darkness for more than an hour, rendered thousands of homes and business establishments lightless and increased the danger of traffic accidents.

Thousands of Cambridge's 109,000 inhabitants were just seating themselves in their favorite motion picture theatre, calling on their best girls, or taking evening constitutional when the lights went out in every part of the city.

DYNAMO STALLED.

Investigation revealed that a tiny mouse had become entangled in a huge generator in the Brattle square power house in Cambridge and had rendered the dynamo horg de combat in a moment's time.

Women and children appealed for police protection on the way to their homes. Storekeepers and theatre managers, fearing robbery, asked for special police details.

WOMEN FAINT.

Pedestrians groned their way along the sidewalks and more than one woman fainted or screamed when she inadvertently grasped the arm of a strange man in the general mix-up caused by the darkness.

In an hour repairmen had restored lights to the city, and 100,000 persons breathed in relief. Until a late hour, no robberies or accidents due to the darkness had been reported.

Harvard sq. presented an appearance identical with that of a generation ago. The night restaurants and drug stores carried on their business by the light of hundreds of candles. Candlesticks were lacking in most cases, and empty bottles, tomato cans and even glass tumblers were pressed into service.

LONG-LOST "SISTER" PROVES MOST COY

New Bedford, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Annie Cirennes, who claims she has found her long lost sister, in the person of Agnes Schultz, a fellow employe in the Soule mills, is having her troubles convincing the latter of the truth of her claim.

Mrs. Cirennes is convinced that the Schultz girl is her little sister who was thought to have been drowned 24 years ago in their old home in Lithuania.

But when she approached her long lost "sister" and told her of her conviction, the latter silently rebuffed her. She would neither deny nor affirm it, nor would she say whether or not her back bears identifying birthmarks.

STRIKE PUT OFF BY WILLIAMS STUDENTS

Williamstown, Nov. 9.—A walkout of members of the sophomore class at Williams College was avoided when 90 members of the second-year class, who had voted to leave college in protest against the suspension of seven of their number for kidnaping freshman class officers, reconsidered their decision following a conference in which the seven in question figured at the dean's office.

The suspension of these sophomores stands, but it is understood that their cases will be considered separately by the college authorities.

COUPLE SOON TO WED ARE OF SAME NAMES

Brockton, Nov. 9.—Brockton is to have a Sylvia wedding November 12. On that day Miss Florence Sylvia is to wed Lawrence Sylvia.

The young woman's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Sylvia, formerly of Compton, R. I., and the young man's parents bear the same name and also are of Compton, R. I.

There is no relationship, but the families have been close friends for years.

WALTHAM POLICE SEIZE MOONSHINE

Acting on tips given by several different automobile parties, who claimed they smelled hooch at a wayside farm, the Waltham police raided the farm buildings occupied by Antuanio Biechierri and seized 230 gallons of moonshine alcohol. They also seized 1,500 empty bottles and four stills, none of which was running. No arrest has yet been made in connection with the case.

Release Rupprecht's Fortune

Munich, Nov. 9.—Czecho-Slovakia released the confiscated fortune of former Crown-Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria.

Woman Leader

MRS. GEORGE W. PERKINS

Mrs. George W. Perkins, executive secretary of the Women's Republican Club of Massachusetts, addressing the daughters of Massachusetts at the Members Symposium at the Brunswick Hotel, urged every woman to enter politics.

"Women who refuse to vote," Mrs. Perkins said, "do not keep out of politics or mend the political situation any. Politics affect every woman in everything she does and uses, her home and her children, and her new job is citizenship."

Mrs. Austin C. Wellington, president of the society, presided. Other speakers were Mrs. Channing H. Cox and Edna T. Spencer.

ONLY 2 DAYS MORE TO SECURE AUTOSTROP

Only two days more.

You men of New England, who have been struggling along for years with any old kind of razor, take heed. Only two days more remain in which you may secure a real razor for what we might call only a song.

Two days more and the Boston American offer of a genuine Autostrop safety razor complete with strop and handsome case for only 36 cents and two razor coupons clipped from the Boston American, will end.

Next week it will be too late. You will be among the thousands who have once again let opportunity knock without seizing it by the hand and dragging it in. Thousands of wise men and women have seized this opportunity. Thousands will be sorry next week when they realize that they have allowed a real chance to slip by.

CENTRE ASSOCIATES TO CONDUCT DANCE

The sixth annual dance of the Centre Associates, an organization composed of young business men of the South End, will be held next Friday evening at Catholic Union Hall, Worcester square.

A feature will be the selection of the most popular girl in that vicinity to be named "Miss Centre." Another feature will be the syncopated jazz orchestra.

The committee is composed of the following: Patrick O'Leary, chairman; W. Harrington, vice-president, and J. Doyle. The reception committee is composed of Messrs. H. Riley chairman; J. Murphy, E. Thevenan and G. Sousa.

SHOE WORKERS FAIL TO EFFECT MERGER

Efforts to effect a consolidation, or a working agreement with that end in view, between the Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America, with headquarters at Lynn, and the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, located in Haverhill, have failed and no further attempt will be made toward the amalgamation, which would mean a union of between 25,000 and 30,000 shoe workers.

WIFE 'BEATEN EACH WEEK' BY FOOTBALL STAR

One beating a week for a period of more than three months was the easy kind of "affection" that Dielor Drake of Malden, ever received from her husband after they had been married for two years, according to her testimony in the Middlesex Probate Court, before Chief Justice Fish, who granted her divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, after he had heard her case.

Mrs. Drake, a pretty blonde, was the wife of Charles Drake, a former star Medford High School football player. The couple have been married for four years, two of which they have spent apart from her former husband.

As was also granted the custody of the child Bernice, three years old, and Drake was ordered to pay her $5 per week towards its support.

108T TO CELEBRATE AT MEDFORD ARMORY

Colonel John F. Osborne of the 11th Engineers, 26th Div. M. N. G., has arranged for the observance of Armistice Day of his regiment at the Medford Armory tomorrow. In the afternoon the regiment will take part in the exercises at the dedication of a suitable memorial to deceased veterans of the World war.

ONLY 2 DAYS MORE OF RAZOR COUPONS

Last two days—today and tomorrow! After that no more coupons in the Boston American.

Over a hundred thousand AutoStrop Razor Sets have been delivered through the Boston American— the greatest sale for the period in the history of safety razor manufacture.

If you haven't clipped your coupons, you can't buy the Razor Set, since the two coupons are a positive condition of the sale as conducted through the American. Today is your last chance. Clip your first one from today's paper; the second one from tomorrow's, then come to the business office of the Boston American, 80 Summer St., Boston, or to the hundreds of stores throughout New England that are acting as distributors, with the two coupons and 36 cents. If you order by mail, send 40 cents and the coupons and address your envelope to the "Razor Editor."

The Boston American has been very conservative in its advertised claims for the many advantages of the Auto-Strop Set. In fact, many of the purchasers tell us that we have really underrated the perfection of its action. It is in reality a SAFETY Razor. The Blades are famous for their keenness and for their wonderful temper. When finished shaving, any man can put the same keen edge back with a few passes over the Strop. This can insure from 10 to 15 perfect shaves.

Don't be sorry by and by—ACT NOW

MAN ACCUSED OF SHOOTING AT GIRL GIVES UP

Leo Caressi, of No. 37 Staniford street, West End, sought by the police on a warrant charging him with firing three shots at Miss Amy Brassell, of No. 1432 Cambridge street, Cambridge, as she was entering her home Sunday night, gave himself up to the police at Station 2, Cambridge.

Caressi is charged with assault with intent to kill Miss Brassell.

Miss Brassell told the police the shots were fired at her by a man from a slow-moving automobile as it passed her home. She recognized her assailant as Caressi, who, she said, had threatened to kill her for having prosecuted him for an alleged robbery.

Caressi was arrested October 17 on the complaint of Miss Brassell that he had robbed her of $200 in cash and $2,000 in jewelry at the point of a revolver, when she motored to the Point of Pines with him.

Proceedings against Caressi were finally dropped, according to the police, when he returned the loot.

When she went to the Chelsea courthouse to appear against Caressi, the latter, Miss Brassell alleges, met her on the court steps and struck her in the face.

STILLMAN GIVES OUT WIFE'S ALLEGED NOTE TO BEAUVAIS

EXPRESSES LOVE FOR GUIDE

DIDN'T SAY "FORGERY."

eJhn F. Brennan, of Yonkers, Mrs. Stillman's chief counsel, denied that he had called the "confession" letter a "forgery." He said that Mrs. Stillman, in her af davit, had denied the authenticity of some of the letters alleged to have been written by her, but had not been specific.

"There is nothing new," he said. "We got a judgment, and we're going to stand by it. We'll argue the case in the courts and not in the newspapers. We know already the public's opinion. The appeal is on the calendar for December, but may be argued before that time."

The love letter, alleged to have been written by Mrs. Stillman to her Indian guide, Fred J. Beauvais, was filed by attorneys for Stillman in his appeal to set as.de the decision of Justice Morschauser in refusing Stillman a divorce and upholding the legitimacy of Baby Guy Stillman.

The Beauvais letter followed the alleged "confession letter" of Mrs. Stillman, made public for the first time in the Stillman controversy.

Mrs. Stillman

It was purported to have been written at the Stillman home on Park avenue, this city, and forms part of Stillman's contention that his suit against his former wife in which he alleged that Baby Guy was the son of the Indian guide, and not his child, should be opened.

TEXT OF LETTER

The letter follows:

"No. 270 Park Ave., Nov. 11.

"Dearest Freddie:

"Your last letter of November 5 was a great comfort to me, the other two hurt and worried me a lot. I thought you would be in on Monday, so sent Bud to meet you; also Kelly at Harmon for the day train.

"I am tired, dear, but your last letter rested me a lot. I don't want to write much because I don't trust the mails or the people in the post office, but I have only been perfectly happy when with you in the beau bois vert.

STILL LOVES HIM

"Nothing I have ever said to you have I ever taken back. I love you in spite of all your faults and mistakes. In real love there is nothing to forgive, but I love you for your good, to make you grow, to make you even suffer, for real love is greater than pain.

"I am not well because I can't be until you are here as I want you to be, my side. A sick sick of everything and everyone. No one really loves you but me and the children—I said November 21 or 22.

"Come and spend a few days with me at Pleasantville. Come in the week when there is only Guy. Get off at Harmon and come soon and love me so I can go on this terrible lonely road a little while longer.

WANTED TO BE NURSED

"I will tell you of the work up there when I see you. Come soon and nurse me.

"Love home.

"AWERIE."

On this letter were drawings of a floor and large and small crosses.

The interests of Mrs. Anne U. Stillman will be in no way impaired by the introduction, i nan appeal action of the famous "confession letter," according to Mrs. Stillman's counsel.

NO PROOF OF LETTER

Judge John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie, guardian-ad-litem of baby Guy, said:

"There is no proof of the letter, no proof of the handwriting, no proof of the signature and no proof ever was aumbitted to the court that Mrs. Stillman sent it.

"It is an exhibit for identification and it was never identified and was refused by the referee. From a legl standpoint, we have no fear of this letter at all. From the newspaper or public viewpoint, we merely regard it as another effort to blacken the name of Mrs. Stillman."

MRS. STILLMAN SILENT

Mrs. Stillman has said nothing for publication since the letter attributed to her was filed by James A. Stillman's counsel and her present whereabouts are not publicly known. John F. Brennan, her attorney, declined to say where Mrs. Stillman is staying and declined to discuss the evidence in the case.

"The alleged confession letter," he said, "is not competent and I am quite confident that it will play no part in the case other than it has already played. It was excluded and I am sure it will continue to be excluded."

Mr. Brennan had previously denied in behalf of his client that she had written the letter or knew anything about it. It is thought that Mrs. Stillman has been spending the autumn on her estate at Grand Anse, Quebec.

The appeal made to the appelate court in Brokfyn, will be argued next month.

Nathan L. Miller, former Governor of New York, has been added to Stillman's counsel and he will argue the appeal.

REVEALS HIS WHEAT SECRET TO COOLIDGE

USES ONLY SKILLED LABOR

Mechanical Engineer Gets 29 Bushels to Acre at Minimum Cost

Washington, Nov. 9 (Universal).—The world's largest and most unusual producer of wheat came to town at the invitation of President Coolidge to give him the benefit of his views of a farm problem which he has solved.

He is Thomas R. Campbell, of Hardin, Mont., a young man, tall and handsome, sartorially dressed who might have stepped from Broadway instead of a land so arid that horses have difficulty living there. And it is from this dry waste that he has wrested 110,000 acres of land yielding 29 bushels to the acre at such a low cost that the present problem doesn't worry him.

MANUFACTURE WHEAT.

"I am a mechanical engineer," he said, "not a farmer."

"We manufacture wheat, almost, instead of raising it. We do not have farm hands, but skilled labor, drawing high salaries, as high as the proverbial plumber for that matter. They are engineers themselves."

And then he revealed the plan he has had in operation successfully, which he claims will be the virtual solution of the American farm problem. It is a solution, he says, which will call the young man back to the farm, call the skilled laborer from the city, and give America farm products at a price now not dreamed of.

4,000 HORSES LOSE JOBS.

"Power is the big problem on the farm," he continued. "There is more power used on the farm than in any other industry, 45,000,000 horsepower to be exact. On my place we have dispensed with 4,000 horses by the use of machinery, a problem that can only be worked out by a mechanical engineer."

Each day on his farm there is plowed the equivalent of a furrow 10 feet wide extending the distance of from New York to Chicago. His tractors consume daily more gasoline than the fifth avenue buses in New York.

One machine he has perfected, operated by two men, seeds an area 60 feet wide and three mile long every hour, or a total of 220 acres per day.

Another machine plows, discs, seeds, packs and harrows in one operation 30 acres per day. Two men operate this.

$1.50 PER ACRE COST.

Still another machine harvests, threshes and loads the grain in trucks at the rate of fifty acres per day and at a cost of $1 per acre.

"There is need today for 1,000,000 skilled mechanical gasoline engineers on the farm," he continued. "There are millions of acres of land such as I have that anyone can do the same things on. The big problem is to lower costs, to produce more, to sell cheaper, to feed better.

"Farming is 95 per cent. a mechanical problem and 5 per cent. an agricultural one. Frankly, we can produce wheat so cheaply with modern machinery that we personally do not fear European competition and cheap labor."

SON OF THE SOIL.

This youthful colossus of the wheat belt is a son of the soil. He was born of pioneers who believed in education and he took full advantage of it, matching his knowledge of the needs of the wheat growers against the knowledge he acquired in solving mechanical problems in college.

He also has his blue eyes trained far into the future for those who work for him. He said:

"No one of the 250 men who work with me will reach old age without money," he observed. "They are already sharing in the profit they produce and acquiring their own lands. That is as it should be and will be everywhere one day."

2 LOWELL MEN ARRAIGNED ON ARSON CHARGE

John Strogieas and Peter Singelackes, both of Lowell, were arraigned before Judge Whiting in the Middlesex Superior Court, on a charge of arson.

Both entered a plea of not guilty and were held in $10,000 each. No date was set for trial.

It is alleged that the two jointly conspired to defraud insurance companies which hold fire insurance policies on their home, a two-story wooden structure on Chelmsford street, Lowell.

The building, which is owned by Harry Clapp, also of Lowell, was badly damaged by fire on the night of October 20. All of the property owned by both men in the house also was damaged. When the firemen arrived at the blaze two separate fires were burning and an investigation was ordered.

Ex-Convict Given Job by Ford Dies Wealthy

Detroit, Nov. 9.—One of the first ex-convicts which Henry Ford took into his factory "to make a man of," has just died in Detroit a successful business man and one of his death. This man was Samuel D. Haynes, who was released from the Thomaston, Me., state prison in 1915, after a tempestuous career as a young man, which finally ended in life sentence for murder. He went to work for Ford, saved his money and began investing in real estate. He also ran a picture-framing business in addition. He became quite a substantial person in the community and had accumulated a small fortune at the time of his death.

OLDEST MIDDLEBURY GRAD WAVERLY MAN

Henry S. Foote, of No. 146 Trapelo road, Waverly, claims he is the oldest living graduate of Middlebury College. He is eighty-seven years of age. The senior of the late Judge Kenesaw A. Haselline of Bristol, Vt., two years Mr. Foote entered Middlebury College in 1853 and was graduated with the class of 1857.

'CANDY KING' GIVES SCHOOL $60,000,000

Harrisburg, Pa., Nov. 9.—The millions of M. S. Hershey, chocolate manufacturer of Hershey, near here, have been turned over to the Hershey Industrial School. Counsel for the "Chocolate King" admitted that the manufacturer had put his entire fortune at the disposal of the school, which places it next to Girard College, Philadelphia, as the wealthiest orphan school in the country.

The estimated value of the sixteen allied companies whose wealth is placed in trust for the school is given at $50,000,000. There are 120 boys enrolled at the school now and each is permitted to select his own trade, which he must learn to become self-supporting.

Together with his wife, Mr. Hershey in 1909 established the industrial school on the old homestead where the manufacturer was born. The first pupils were given instruction the year following.

COLLEGE GIRL SPANKED, HER FATHER FINED

Cleveland, Nov. 9—Antoinette, 21-year-old exponent of the bobbed-haired freedom of 1923 American Girlhood and graduate of a local college, was taken home from a fashionable suburb wedding celebration after having been first hoisted across the parental knee and given a sound spanking, it was learned.

Nothing would have been known of the incident, for social people are strangely silent when something of that nature occurs, had not Miss Fiorelli, daughter of a wealthy wholesale fruit merchant, appeared in police court for the purpose of having her father arrested on an assault and battery charge.

USED PADDLE

The spanked maiden told the prosecutor that she had been invited to her friend's wedding, and had informed her parents that she would not be home until late. Father evidently told her to be home at a designated time, but Antoinette thought she was old enough to take care of herself.

"The party was just beginning to become lively," Miss Fiorelli told the prosecutor, "when father came in the front door with a slim paddle. I believe it was one my little brother used to paddle his boat. He didn't see me at first, and just stood in the middle of the ballroom, swinging the paddle.

"You can probably imagine my embarrassment when father, suddenly locating me, walked over, lifted me over his knees and began to spank me in the presence of almost all of the guests. And there were about 150 of them invited to the wedding.

JUDGE RELENTS.

"After spanking me in public, he asked the hostess for my wraps, and taking me by the hand, pulled me out of the house. I heard some of the young men laugh, and I was so mad I began to cry," she continued.

"I am going to fine you costs and sentence you to thirty days in the work-house," Judge Green said with finality.

"But I don't want daddy put in jail," protested Antoinette. "I just want him to understand that he can't spank me any more."

Judge Green, fresh from the receipt of the news of his re-election to a six-year term on the Municipal bench, relented, suspended the sentence, and placed Fiorelli on probation.

GIFTS FOR TRAFFIC SQUAD COMMANDERS

Lieut. James Laffey, and Sergeants William P. Gaffney and Edward G. Kennedy, of Division 20, Traffic Squad, Boston Police Department, were each presented with gold watches, clubs and knives at roll call by members of the traffic division.

The three officers have been assigned to the new traffic division No. 21, with headquarters on St. Botolph street.

COP BEAT WIFE OFTEN, ASSERT NEIGHBORS

State Police Officer Joseph D. Cobb of Melrose was an habitual wife beater, according to the testimony of witnesses at the hearing in Middlesex Probate Court on the wife's petition for separate maintenance.

Mrs. J. D. Cobb

Captain Louis Heaton of the Melrose police, told of having arrested Cobb on one occasion when he threw his wife through a glass panel in the kitchen door, causing the woman to suffer severe cuts.

ON PROBATION.

Arraigned, after his arrest, in the Malden district court, Cobb at that time pleaded guilty and was placed on probation for six months.

Other witnesses who told of Cobb's alleged abuse of his wife were George Hugo of Rose street, Melrose, and Mrs. Nettie Grime of Porter street, Melrose.

Hugo testified to having seen Mrs. Cobb rush from her home late one evening attired only in night clothes, with blood flowing from a wound over her left eye. Mrs. Grime told of having often observed cuts and bruises on Mrs. Cobb's body, when the Cobbs lived in her house. These injuries, she said, she noted only after frequent quarrels between the Cobbs.

MARRIED THREE TIMES.

Cobb has been thrice married. His first wife died after bearing him five children. He divorced his second wife on the grounds of desertion and later filed a $50,000 suit charging alienation of the affections of his second wife against Charles R. Slater of No. 186 Chestnut street, Cambridge.

DEATH CAR DRIVER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Probable cause was found in the case of Carmino Sarno of No. 50 Vernon street, Somerville, arraigned in Charlestown court, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of William Curgerven, proprietor of a Mystic avenue garage, Somerville, on Main street, Charlestown, and he was held in $1,000 for the Grand Jury. The police charged that Sarno was operator of the automobile that struck Curgerven, hurling him twenty feet, and then ran over the body and drove away.

'RED HEAD' LOVE WONHER MATE, WIFE SAYS

MRS. ELVIRA C. HENWOOD

DAVID J. HENWOOD

When a woman marries, in the throes of love and affection she takes the man for better or worse. Mrs. Elvira C. Henwood of Boston, however, says all she ever got was the worse.

Charging Miss Mary M. Howard of Brookline as the "red-headed vamp" in the case, Mrs. Henwood has brought an alienation of affections suit against Miss Howard to the extent of $10,000 subsequent to a decree against her husband, David J., now pending.

"Well, he believes in trying them all," said Mrs. Henwood, speaking about her gay husband. "I was a blonde, his second love was a brunette and Miss Howard, now holding the third key to his fickle heart, is a red-head."

GAVE HIM START.

Henwood is a South street leather merchant and yachtsman. He participated in the recent race from New London to Bermuda.

"His affinities have all the luxuries which a wealthy man can afford, but I, his wife, have nothing, and it was the $50 which I saved from my allowance that set him up in business.

"I've been a fool. But let me advise women just like me through your newspaper. Women never slave for a man; never place him on a pedestal and hope that some day when dreams come true he will drive you through fairyland. It is only a pipe dream. I had one and it has bursted.

"True to the prophecy of my womanly intuition, I predicted my outcome. I knew that when my husband made good I would be no good and, like a coat, he would take me off and put on a new one, a smart one, one of the latest style, a coat with dash, pep and go. How could I fit that bill after 23 years of work, work, work.

WANTS 'EM YOUNG.

"When a man accumulates money he develops a weakness for women, not necessarily pretty, but young. His money becomes a curse and he becomes a slave to vain folly.

Mrs. Henwood is a little woman of 41, chestnut hair and a wonderful complexion. When her divorce against her husband comes up in the Suffolk Superior Court she will tell her story of cruel and abusive treatment, desertion, and a life of hardship for her three children, two boys and a girl.

Miss Howard is a stenographer for the Fallon Shoe Company. She is 27 years old, tall and willowy.

Mrs. Henwood lives with her parents at No. 679 Hammond street, Brookline.

Charles William Lewars of the Tremont Building is counsel for Mrs. Henwood.

STOKES LAWYER CALLS RIVAL "SHYSTER"

New York, Nov. 9. (Universal)—Max D. Steuer, summing up the W. E. D. Stokes divorce suit against Helen Elwood Stokes, threw professional courtesy to the winds in his attack on Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the defence.

He called Mr. Untermyer a "shyster," referred to him as "Sergeant Buzzfuzz" (Dickens' caricature of legal infamy) and sneered at his efforts to prejudice the minds of the jury by sentimental references to Mrs. Stokes' children.

Mrs. Stokes

Mr. Steuer began his address after Mr. Untermyer concluded.

It is expected that the case will go to the jury some time today.

Mr. Stokes' attorney defended his witnesses stoutly against the charges of perjury made by Untermyer. He said they were all honest and sincere in their identification of Mrs. Stokes

[illegible] occurred between Steuer and Untermyer when the former [illegible] that also, Stokes had been robbed of $35,000 worth of jewels in 1917 "was either a myth or else Mrs. Stokes got this small fortune in jewels from some source not known to her husband."

Mr. Untermyer was instantly on his feet shouting that Steuer was "manufacturing evidence." Quiet was restored when Justice Mahoney said he would refer to the matter in his instructions to the jury.

Mrs. Stokes had testified that the jewels were given to her by her mother at various times before her marriage.

FORD BUYS SUDBURY FARM

Will Restore Ancient Joshua Hager House to Pre-Revolutionary Glories

Marlboro, Nov. 9.—Henry Ford has purchased from Adele T. Elwell the old Joshua Hager place, on the Boston Road, towards the Sudbury line, in connection with his other purchases in this vicinity.

With that purchase, which has been consummated, two other deals are completed, except for passing of papers, which will give Mr. Ford the bulk of the property on the south side of the road from Marlboro to the Sudbury line. It is said he will restore it to its original architectural form.

The Hager homestead is one of Marlboro's landmarks, being a pre-Revolutionary structure. It is near the Sudbury line, about two miles from Marlboro's center and was built in 1730 by William Hager, an illiterate character, who signed all papers with his "mark," but in 1740 became a partner in a business enterprise with Samuel Adams, the Revolutionary patriot. Hager was a staunch Whig. He was the first to operate a sawmill in this section.

Outhouses and barns and about two and one-half acres of land go in the Hager place purchase, which is assessed for $3,000. The purchase price is not made public. A year ago Mrs. Elwell built a tea room in front of the old house. A representative of the Ford interests stated this will be torn down and the old place restored to its original form.

Ford has also purchased the Chadburn farm, across the street, from Henry A. Chadburn. It comprises a house, barn and outbuildings, with 230 acres of land. That property is assessed for $23,355.

A tract of two and one-half acres of land, mostly gravel pits, to the north of the Hager property and adjoining it has been purchased from E. W. Nourse of Marlboro.

KLAN HEADQUARTERS IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 9.—National headquarters for the Ku Klux Klan, headed by Imperial Wizard H. W. Evans, will be moved to this city from Atlanta, Ga., according to reliable information here. The transfer will be made within the next two weeks and negotiations have been under way for several days for the lease of a building in this city suitable for the Klan headquarters, F. E. Nulty, real estate dealer, admitted that a deal was practically closed with the Evans faction of the Klan for lease of the old Kansas City Athletic Club.

Women Robbed of Beauty Through Laziness, Says Danish Expert

Perfect Figure Only Possible by Co-ordination of Muscular Activity, Asserts Sir Niels Bukh

This is the first of a series of articles on beauty and its culture by Sir Niels Bukh, the great Danish educator in primitive gymnastics, who comes to Symphony Hall, Boston, next Monday.

Mr. Bukh has been knighted by the Danish King for his work in developing the youth of Denmark at his school in Ollerup.

He at present is touring the United States with thirty of his pupils, demonstrating how high a degree of perfection the human body may attain within a brief period of training, under auspices of the Playground and Recreation Association of America. Read the Boston American to learn how you, too, may become a Venus or Apollo.

By SIR NIELS BUKH

Woman has assumed the truth of the old adage that "beauty is skin deep" with the result that she spends hours before her dressing table applying cosmetics when that time well might be spent in an occupation which permanently would give her the beauty she seeks. She is interested now merely in giving an appearance of beauty to that part of her which is visible, forgetting that beauty is real only when it comes from a perfect co-ordination of muscular activity.

PERFECT FIGURE.

Beauty cannot be interpreted in terms of long eyelashes, or a perfect nose. Beaut, must mean a perfectly developed figure as typified by the Venus de Milo.

To digress a moment, I have been repeatedly asked why I chose Venus de Milo as the ideal rather than Diana. And I answer because the Venus is civilized cultured, poised, she has a spiritual quality which the Diana lacks. She is luxuriously rounded, yet strong and supple. Diana, the huntress, on the contrary, is the peasant type. She is square, raw boned, common and earthly. She has none of that femininity which the modern woman should seek to attain.

BLENDING OF TRINITY.

Only few women have realized that real fairness lies in the blending of the trinity physical, spiritual and mental well-being. Those few who are sufficiently panhellenic and desirous of physical perfection to work for it and pay for it in various and developing manual labor have been found out quick ly by theatrical men, and the beautifully formed woman the world over usually may be found behind the footlights.

America at present is composed of a race of women who are trying to reduce. Today it's five pounds, tomorrow it's another pound. They eat with blind fear and continue to grow fat. If they would only work with their hands; if they would only walk like natural human beings!

JAIL ENDS LOVE TRIP IN N. J.

Husband Pays Fine of Wife and Sweetheart and All Ends Happily

Cliopee Falls, Nov. 9.—In an amazingly frank confession, Mrs. Dora LaBonte, runaway wife of Arthur LaBonte of Aldenville, tells of her two months' love-journey with Charles Cote, her girlhood sweetheart.

"In my own six-cylinder coupe, I began my delightful second honeymoon, but ended it in a jail cell in Elizabeth, N. J.," Mrs. LaBonte began.

"Arthur found me there, got me out and then my little daughter, Janet, who was with me, stepped her pantive cry to the Jane Master, please open the door for my mama and me.'

THRILLED BY BROADWAY.

It was simply I loved Charley, so I went away with him. I would have taken both babies, but distance was too small. Packing my trunk, dressing Janet, and [illegible] Charley I drove to Dublin, Ga. We went by train to New York.

Broadway thrilled me. We stayed at a hotel right near Times Square. We secretly spent in Washington and then we went to Jacksonville and Bainbridge, Fla., where we remained several weeks.

"I was happy and comfy with Charley. Janet liked him. But Baby Constance came to me in my dreams and we carried North to get her. I liked Florida and only ached for a cottage for four, with no interfering outsiders.

FUNDS DWINDLE

"As we came North, Charley and I figured wrong and nearly went broke. We got a lift in an auto from Princeton to Elizabethport. There I could fairly feel the sands of New York life, as well as the touch of Baby's dear little hot arms.

"A revolver Charley bought me lay in my pocket, being intended for self-protection in the country in Florida. Putting my hand on it as we rolled to a stop in Elizabeth I cried to Arthur Vaughn the driver: 'Don't take us to New York or I'll brain you!' I was intoxicated with excitement and relief!

"Vaughn was scared white as a towel for he was in the heart of the city and he signaled a traffic policeman, who arrested Charley, Janet and me. Janet is only four. I got ten days, Charley thirty, for threatening Vaughn.

HUSBAND PAYS FINE.

That broke the spell. It was the first time Charley and I were separated. I was locked in a cell with Janet for three days and nights. Charley begged special food for my baby and me. I asked the police to notify my husband, for Janet's sake, and he came.

"When he told me Constance was lonesome, I asked his aid. He arranged to pay a fine in place of my sentence and Charley's father paid for Charley. Charley is only twenty.

"With Baby Constance in my arms, I'm ready to face jail again for the happiness I cannot find at home.

"When I danced professionally in Montreal, Charles Cote was my man. As children we were always marrying each other in play.

NO DIVORCE.

"I eloped with Arthur at sixteen but we were unsuited. I am now twenty two. My hobbies, unlike his, are travel, the stage, dancing. Our only common ties are our little daughters."

"I felt sorry because I knew I was doing wrong in going away with her," said Cote. "But at home she was discontented and irritable; away with me, perfectly satisfied with life and a better woman. I will never think of marrying any girl as long as I cannot have her."

Arthur LaBonte, quiet, unemotional husband, who forgives his wife, said he cannot consider a divorce because his children need both father and mother.

MISS STEDMAN, STAGE STAR, TO MARRY

New York, Nov. 9—Although her engagement has not yet been officially announced, Fanny Stedman has already been swamped with congratulations.

The star, who is now performing at Keith's Bushwick, Brooklyn, would neither deny nor affirm the rumor of her coming marriage.

The lucky man is said to be George Roberts, former manager of the Hathaway Circus, which has recently been sold. Roberts is now in New York, adjusting matters pertaining to the circus.

When asked about the engagement, Miss Stedman merely replied that Mr. Roberts would discuss the matter at a later date.

Miss Stedman, who acts with her brother, Al Stedman, is well known to patrons of the Keith circuit. Just now her friends and admirers are wondering whether her rumored marriage will end her stage career.

SECRET CACHE HELD $20,000 IN LIQUOR

New York, Nov. 9.—An inquisitive customs inspector today uncovered a secret cache containing 208 cases of French liquors, with a bootleg value of $20,000, on tug Capitol No. 1 which was captured off College Point.

The customs men found 2,000 cases of liquors, valued at $200,000 when they captured the Capitol. While inspecting the boiler room today inspector John Fox followed the marks of feet in the engine grime and came upon the cache. It was a compartment under the boiler, said to have a capacity for at least twenty men.

Customs officials are investigating the tug's immediate past, in the belief that she may have engaged in rum-running or Chinese as well as rum.

The Capitol, officials said was formerly the John Cann, captured off North Jersey last June with a large cargo of liquor. The Government sold her and she again found her way into the hands of liquor smugglers.

LUDENDORFF AND HITLER PRISONERS; REVOLT SUPPRESSED and have ordered the arrest of these two leaders.

The coup appears to be wholly confined to the Munich brewhouse where it was started.

London, Nov. 9—A Central News dispatch from Berlin says the following message has been received from Munich:

"The 'putsch' is considered to have ended. Ludendorff and Adolf Hitler have barricaded themselves in the War Ministry, which is surrounded by troops. Von Poehner, who had assumed the premiership of the new government, has been arrested. The Reichswehr are loyal to the Berlin government. The government of Premier Von Knilling is acting in accord with Dr. Von Kahr, the military dictator

Munich, Nov. [illegible]—Gen. Ludendorff, proclaimed dictator of all Germany, said today after he was proclaimed dictator:

"I am going to reraise the black white and red flag throughout Germany, including on the Rhine

Ludendorff was appointed commander-in-chief of the German army by Adolph Hitler, after the latter had proclaimed himself Chancellor of Germany.

of Chancellor Stresemann has been deposed and that Munich henceforth shall be the "seat of imperial government."

VON KNILLING ARRESTED.

The Bavarian ministry of Premier Von Knilling was "deposed" and the Premier and several members of his Cabinet were reported under arrest.

Dr. Von Kahr, recently made military dictator of Bavaria by the Berlin government, has accepted the Governorship of the State "as a representative of the monarchy."

General Von Lossow, leader of the Bavarian Reichswehr, has been named Minister of War, while Herr Von Poehner, former chief of police of Munich, has been made administrator.

Bavaria disclaims any intention of seceding from the German Reich. The object of the leaders is to extend Munich's power throughout Germany, giving Bavaria the dominant position formerly held in Germany by Prussia.

Young Bavarian troops along the Thuringian and Saxon borders are getting restive. Their officers are having difficulty holding them under control.

FEAR COUNTER REVOLT.

Heavy forces of police and troops were on guard in this city today to prevent any attempt at a counter revolt.

Dr. von Kahr, after accepting the Bavarian Governorship, issued a proclamation calling upon all Nationalists to support the new regime.

General von Hindenburg, Germany's foremost soldier and German chief of staff during the greater part of the war, has taken no part in the Nationalist activities in Bavaria. This is in marked contrast with the aggressive stand taken by his wartime colleague Ludendorf in behalf of the Nationalist movement.

Ludendorff moved from Berlin to Bavaria in order to be right upon the scene.

movement has been started to place former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria upon the throne.

News received here that the Berlin government has severed all relations with Bavaria increased the tension and Munich sees civil war as inevitable.

It is even reported that Bavarian troops have been ordered prepared to march upon Prussia.

Berlin Hears Von Kahr and Lossow Are Loyal

Berlin, Nov. 9 (AP).—Wireless dispatches from Nuremberg and Stuttgart, which, however, are received with reserve here, state that the Bavarian dictator Von Karn and the commander of the Bavarian Reichswehr, General Von Lossow, joined the Hitler-Ludendorff movement last night only under compulsion and that they plan to repress the movement and arrest Hitler and Ludendorff.

When word of the revolt reached Berlin, the Central government severed all relations with Bavaria, appointed General Von Seeckt as commander-in-chief of the National Army and announced the withdrawal of all federal support from the rebellious state until constitutional conditions should be resumed.

The government also addressed an appeal to the German people, saying:

"We exhort all patriots to defend [illegible] and to restore order. Steps have been taken and will be carried out with the utmost vigor."

War Minister Geesler has forbidden the Berlin newspapers to publish other than official reports regarding Bavarian events.

Foreign Exchange Slumps British Pound to $4.40

New York, Nov. 9.—Foreign exchanges toppled at the opening of today's market as a result of the situation in Germany. Demand sterling dropped more than 2 cents to $4.40, a new low record for the year.

New lows for the year were established also by Spanish pesetas Norwegian and Danish kronen and Holland guilders, while French and Belgian francs declined sharply.

Senkirchen, Ruhr Valley, Nov. 9 (AP).—One man was killed and forty severely wounded during serious disturbances which occurred around the Boniface mines at Kray, resulting from the inability of the management to pay the employes full wages, owing to the shortage of marks.

BOSTON'S CARE FOR CITY'S AGED POOR SCORED AT MEETING

PAUPERS IN HOSPITALS FOR INSANE

Speakers Flay Conditions in Homes and Present Pension System

Many persons now confined in hospitals for the insane are there simply because they are unwilling to declare themselves paupers, and have no other way of existing. Conditions in Boston's homes for the aged are disgraceful.

One-third of the 161,000 persons over sixty five years of age in Massachusetts are dependent upon public charity.

It now costs the Commonwealth of Massachusetts $2 cents to administer $1 in charity.

These facts were brought out at the initial sitting of the Old Age Pensions Commission, appointed by Governor Cox at the direction of the Legislature to investigate the subject of pensions in Massachusetts.

The meeting, in the form of a public hearing, was held in the State House, with Royal Robbins of Brookline presiding in the absence of Chairman Frank H. Hardison.

GIVES SPECIAL PENSIONS.

A. P. Hill of Boston described conditions as he found them in Boston's homes for the aged, and said: It is a disgrace to see old people sitting around to die in such places when they might be cared for otherwise, and declared that many persons now in insane hospitals are there for lack of a better place to go, merely because they do not wish to declare themselves paupers.

He said it is wrong to continue the payment of pensions to a favored few, such as judges, police, and other public servants.

Mrs. Frank W. Page of Boston declared herself in favor of a pension system as a means of relief to persons now forced to support charitable organizations. She advocated the abolition of all private charity and the placing of such funds in the hands of the State.

SUBJECT FOR PROBE.

Funds received by charitable organizations are subject for State investigation, she declared.

"This commission should use its common sense and do something for the poor and cut out the bunk that has shrouded the question for the past seven years," declared former Representative John R. Shay in addressing the commission.

COST OF CHARITY.

"It already costs $2 cents for the State to administer one dollar of charity," he continued, "and so why not look at the subject from the proper angle and get down to business. We have heard a lot about what the countries of Europe have done," he said in reference to former speakers.

ASKS FOR $50,000 FOR ONE 'LOST' HUSBAND

MRS. C. LANG AND TOTS

Jamaica Plain woman who has brought $50,000 alienation of affections suit against a Dorchester theatre organist.

WIDOW STOLE HUBBY'S LOVE, WIFE CHARGES

Charging Mrs. Edna E. Galbraith with alienating the affections of her husband, Gerhardt, Mrs. Catherine Lang, of No. 53 Mozart street, Jamaica Plain, mother of three children, has filed suit for $50,000 against Mrs. Galbraith, a widow, of No. 5 Dudley street, Roxbury.

Lang, one of three men arrested in June, 1922, recently, is out on $500 bail on charges of non-support and desertion.

While employed as salesman in a downtown store he became acquainted with Mrs. Galbraith. Their friendship increased, and finally, in May of this year, it is alleged, he lived for two weeks at the home of Mrs. Galbraith.

Mrs. Galbraith, an attractive widow of 45, is an organist in an Uphams corner theatre. Mrs. Lang is twenty years old, and is an attendant on a subway news-stand.

Despite the fact he had gone away, Lang in his letters always addressed his wife affectionately. The first indication of his waning love came last June, when Mrs. Lang received a letter, postmarked New York. In it, she says, Lang said: "I have not seen someone, you know who, since a week ago Tuesday." The letter was signed, "Your untrue husband."

BURGLARS LOOT CAMBRIDGE HOUSE

Clothing and jewelry, valued at more than $1,000, were stolen from the home of Gordon J. White, No. 22 Prescott street, Cambridge, by thieves, who forced the front door. White reported the robbery to the Central square police station in Cambridge. He said he and Mrs. White had returned after an absence of several hours to find the house in disorder with clothing strewn about and furniture overturned.

Among the stolen articles, he said were a fur-lined overcoat, a leather hand bag, a pearl necklace, a pearl ring, an opal ring, an amber and gold necklace, silverware, and gold, pearl, and amber earrings.

HOTEL REGISTER SHOWS CURTIS REGISTERED WITH "WIFE"

'MRS. DUGGAN' IN ANOTHER ROOM ON SAME DAY

in the transient ledger that C. H. Curtis and wife registered at the Copley Square hotel and that a cancelled abbreviation "Mrs." showed that the wives had booked out.

Judge Quinn—I shall instruct the jury at the proper time that the purpose of this inquiry is to refresh the memory of the witness and shall enter the exceptions of counsel for defense.

Counsel for all the defendants entered exceptions.

Prosecutor Hill referred again to the entry on page 29.

Atty. Walsh objected and aroused the ire of Mr. Hill.

Prosecutor Hill—It is manifest that Mr. Walsh, by his interruptions, is causing the witness to make the answers which he desires him to make. His last objection makes that apparent.

Prosecutor Hill exhibits the key that made Room 45 at the Copley Square Hotel famous.

Attorney Walsh sprang to his feet angrily.

Judge Quinn told counsel that the matter was closed.

Attorney Walsh—Your honor, I ask the right to reply to Mr. Hill. I do not think I should be deprived of the right to answer such a public reprimand.

Judge Quinn—I will state that I took the interruption of Mr. Walsh as a proper one. This ends the incident.

The "mysterious Mr. Curtis," who claims that he was shaken down by the ring for $10,000, has been identified at last as C. H. Curtis, a wealthy business man from Maine.

Curtis is the man who, Mrs. Lillian Reese testified, nearly died of fright" when the ring broke into his room at the Copley Square Hotel. His initials, long a matter of lively speculation, were supplied by Manager Spracklin yesterday in his direct testimony.

With Curtis at the time was a Mr. Crofut, whose full name has not been offered in evidence. Prosecutor Arthur D. Hill avers to prove by Spracklin that Mrs. Theresa Duggan, one of the eight defendants on trial for fleecing wealthy Romeos, and Peggy Purdy, were the girls who registered at the Copley Square Hotel in July, 1919, as the "wives" of Curtis and Crofut.

REGISTER GONE

The prominence of the men made their concern the greater when they were trapped. It is the contention of the government that Spracklin went to Curtis' room after the "raid" and saw there the girls, William J. Corcoran and others.

Prosecutor Hill resorted to every artifice of the practiced interrogator in an effort to wring from Spracklin the admission that he had confided to Attorney Charles H. Innes that he had seen Corcoran on the scene.

Mr. Hill tried to refresh the witnesses' memory by asking if he didn't recall making such a statement in a conversation with Attorney Innes when the latter proposed to see someone in connection with the prosecution in Spracklin's behalf, but the witness doggedly insisted that he could not remember saying anything of the kind.

The road of the prosecution was made more difficult by absence of the hotel register for 1919, which Spracklin said had been destroyed. To overcome this handicap, Prosecutor Hill resorted to the "transcript register" of the Copley Square Hotel and from entries therein laboriously builded the desired narrative.

GIRLS HIRED ROOM

These entries showed that a "Mrs. F. Duggan" and a woman named "Purdy" or "Curdy," registered at the Copley Square Hotel July 10 and signed out on July 12. They occupied room No. 97 for which they were charged $16 at the rate of $8 a day. Spracklin could not recall who paid their bill, nor was there any record of who paid in the ledger.

Spracklin was quick to make a point of the fact that the letter which Prosecutor Hill claimed was a "P" was a capital "C" which would make the name of Mrs. Duggan's companion "Curdy" instead of "Purdy." Mr. Hill showed by entries in the transient ledger which were admitted by the witness, that C. E. Curtis "and wife" registered at the hotel on July 10 and that the chauffeur, Henry George, was also assigned a room. The following day Mr. and "Mrs." Crofut arrived. On July 12 the "wives" departed and Curtis and Crofut were assigned to the same room. They both signed out on July 13, and paid a bill of $53.40.

ALL DAY ON STAND

Spracklin spend all of Thursday on the witness stand and he promises to remain there the better part of today. He wore a new tight-fitting dark Winter overcoat with velvet collar, a dark business suit, fortune bell glasses and a big stickpin in a cravat. He kept his overcoat on throughout his ordeal on the witness stand and carried his pearl grey felt hat in his left hand.

In excited moments he gave evidence to replace by a flourish of his cherished fedora. And he kept his wad of gum working throughout.

Max Korn, wealthy leather merchant of Peabody and A. L. Lumbert, millionaire lumber dealer of Houlton, Me., two other alleged victims, were in court while Spracklin was testifying. Lumbert was in jovial mood. He posed for his picture and chatted with the reporter at recess. He is a member of the bar, was in the Maine legislature and was on the staff of a former Governor of Maine.

Spracklin saw a couple of "dicks" trailing Hutchinson a very short while. The "dicks" spied around the Copley Square Hotel, but Spracklin didn't see them.

Lumbert was recently divorced from a very young and pretty wife. The girl with whom he was trailed twice at Copley Square Hotel was scarcely twenty years of age. Her identity has not yet been disclosed.

Mr. Hill did his utmost to have Spracklin state to the jury whether he saw Corcoran there that night, or at least to recall whether he told Atty. Innes in his interview that he saw Corcoran there, using many questions to these effects. The witness insisted that he had no recollection.

Q.—I will now ask you about the actual happenings that night. Was it or was it not a fact that you saw Mr. Corcoran that night? A.—I don't recollect.

Q.—Did you mention the name of Corcoran to Mr. Innes during that interview? A.—I might have, due to the fact that he was in the case.

Q.—Do you recall mentioning the name of Corcoran at all? A.—No.

Q.—Now don't you know that in that conversation with Mr. Innes he proposed to see someone in connection with the prosecution in your behalf? A.—I don't remember. He may have.

Q.—Was any such proposal made? A.—There was something mentioned about the books and I wasn't keen about the books going down there.

Q.—You testified earlier today that the original record for 1919 had been destroyed? A.—Yes.

RECORDS DESTROYED

Q.—When was that destroyed? A.—Well, that was four years ago. Probably about a year and a half afterwards.

Q.—Was it before the Grand Jury proceedings? A.—It may have been some time before. I don't recall.

The witness said re recalled having stated that the registration sheets for the hotel for 1919 had been destroyed.

Q.—Would it surprise you to hear that your counsel stated to representatives of the Commonwealth that the registration sheets were in your safe?

Judge Quinn—I exclude the question.

Q.—Can you tell us whether you ever told your counsel, Mr. Innes, that Levenson was there that evening? A.—I can't remember.

Q.—You can't say you didn't tell him that Levenson was there? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Was Levenson there? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—I mean that particular evening? A.—That night? I don't remember seeing Mr. Levenson.

Q.—He may have been there? A.—He may have been in the hotel. I don't know.

DIDN'T SEE LEVENSON

Q.—Did you see Levenson in that room that evening? A. No, sir.

Q.—You are positive you didn't see him in that room that night? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Then you are positive he wasn't there? A.—I am positive I didn't see him that night.

Q.—After a conversation you had with Mr. Innes, did you ever have a conversation with an associate of Mr. Innes, Mr. Harry Nair? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—You didn't desire to go before the Grand Jury did you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—You didn't desire to produce your books unless compelled to do so, did you? A.—No, I didn't desire to do so.

Q.—One of your objects in going to Mr. Innes was to avoid going before the Grand Jury—that's true isn't it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Another object you had in mind was to avoid producing any books—that was true wasn't it? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—It was for those purposes that you went to see Mr. Innes? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you recall that shortly after that Mr. Innes had occasion to go to Washington? A.—No, I don't.

Q.—Do you recall, at any rate that Innes was absent for some days? A.—I have no particular reason to remember that.

HILL PERSISTENT

Q.—Well, do you recall he was absent from his office? A.—No.

Q.—Do you recall seeing Mr. Harry Nair? A.—I don't recall it, but it might have happened.

Q.—Do you recall talking to Mr. Nair about the Curtis matter? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—If you did talk to Mr. Nair did you state to him what took place and what you saw in Curtis' room?

This question was excluded by the court.

Q.—Then you have no recollection of having talked with Mr. Nair? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Now, Mr. Witness, this matter of the Curtis case was again called to your attention early in 1923 wasn't it? A.—It might have been in 1923.

Q.—At that time didn't you see Mr. Harry Nair? A.—I might have. I don't remember.

Q.—Didn't you have a talk at about that time with Mr. Nair in which you told him the facts that that Curtis had come to the hotel on a number of occasions, sometimes with his wife, and that on an occasion in July you thought his wife was with him the day he came there, that on one of the nights he was there it was reported to you there was some commotion in his room and that you went up there and saw Mr. Curtis with two girls and two men that you did not know and also Mr. Corcoran? A.—I don't remember telling him that Corcoran was there.

VAGUE ABOUT GIRLS

Q.—Do you remember your further statement to Mr. Nair that they, referring to the party in the room, had been drinking? A.—I might have said that.

Q.—And that later you told him that Levenson claimed to represent one of the parties? A.—I never remember saying that.

Q.—Do you remember that you denied to Mr. Nair that you sent for Mr. Corcoran? A.—I don't remember discussing Corcoran.

Q.—Is that all of the conversation with Nair if you had such a conversation, that you remember? A.—That's all I recollect.

Q.—Will you tell the jury whether you are now able to say there were two girls in the room? A.—I don't remember how many were there—there might have been five or six.

At this point Prosecutor Hill produced the hotel books and had Spracklin pick out the transient ledger.

Q.—Take this book and tell me what it is, Mr. Witness. A.—It is the transient ledger.

Q.—Describe what it is. A.—I would prefer to have our bookkeeper who is over there do that, as he knows all about the books.

Q.—I prefer to have you answer my question. A.—It is the ledger in which accounts are kept of guests who stay a short time.

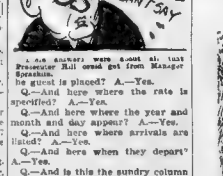
Q.—I direct your attention to page 83 and see if there is any charge there against Mrs. F. Duggan? A.—Yes.

Q.—What is the date? A.—It is in 1919.

Q.—What is the specific date? A.—It is in 1919, I don't know the exact date.

Q.—I will call your attention to the abbreviation "No." on the left hand side. Is that where the number of the room is generally put? A.—Yes.

Q.—And is this where the name of the guest is placed? A.—Yes.



Mr. Innes' answers were about all that Prosecutor Hill could get from Manager Spracklin.

Q.—And here where the rate is specified? A.—Yes.

Q.—And here where the year and month and day appear? A.—Yes.

Q.—And here where arrivals are listed? A.—Yes.

Q.—And here when they depart? A.—Yes.

Q.—And is this the sundry column for incidental expenses? A.—Yes.

Q.—I will now call your attention to the entry "Room No. 97"—does that show that Mrs. F. Duggan occupied that room? A.—Yes.

Q.—And is this other name Purdy? A.—I think it is Curdy.

SHOWN TO JURY

Prosecutor Hill showed the entry in the ledger to the jurors, calling their attention to the name in dispute, which he considered Purdy and which the witness said he thought was Curdy.

The record showed that a Mrs. F. Duggan and a woman companion arrived at the Copley Square Hotel July 10, 1919, and left on July 12. An entry showed the rate meant $8 per day and that a bill of $16 was paid. The witness told Mr. Hill he did not know who paid the bill.

Q.—Having refreshed your memory from that ledger, will you now state, Mr. Spracklin, whether Mrs. Duggan was at your hotel in July, 1919? A.—Yes, if the book says so.

Q. But you have no memory about it? A.—No.

Q.—I will now direct your attention to Page 53 of the ledger. Do these records show that Rooms 24, 25 and 46 were occupied by certain persons in July? A.—Yes.

AUTHOR IS OFFERED DRINK IN EVERY HOUSE HE VISITS

New York, Nov. 9.—These United States of America were again soundly berated by Israel Zangwill, English Zionist, author and dramatist, in the second of his lectures in this city that have left its population wondering whether there is any excuse for their existence.

Zangwill was late in arriving and blamed the delay on his chauffeur. Taking this as his text he proceeded to arraign our vaunted efficiency.

According to Mr. Zangwill:

Our prohibition is as comical and inanecent as it is alcoholic.

Our safety razors are a sadistic device for self-torture.

Our restaurants serve yesterday's dinner forty minutes late today.

We weave red tape into mantles of inefficiency and nets for entanglement.

Our immigration policy would keep out Steinmetz and admit brussers.

In Europe tiping is a petty larceny; here it is highway robbery.

Our million dollar drives drive hum ca ers.

Our million dollar "temples of this and that" are ulcers on the landscape.

America's Sunday papers are the Sodoth offering to the great god vulgarity.

Christian Science—on that topic Mr. Zangwill lapsed into speechless ness.

As for the christian spirit—shutting immigrants out of our 3,000,000 square miles of fertile lands showed how far we missed it.

Americans, he declared, are puffing inconsequential without sense of honor or dignity; they are self-conscious, half-educated and like to deceive themselves. He agreed with Henry L. Mencken a declaration in England last spring that Americans, prising themselves on their "go getter" traits and energy, are in reality the laziest and most inefficient people in the world.

"You are not the greatest people in the world," he cautioned, benevolent for a moment. The preceding day one audience had met his outburst in stony silence, while another nearly cut his speech in half. "But you have the greatest potentiality of any people in the world.

"If America goes wrong, the hope of civilization goes wrong."

With this pat on the back, Mr. Zangwill vaulted into the saddle and was off again, galloping across the American epidermis.

"I would never have passed you dry land," he said. "But if I had passed them, I would obey them.

"I have been offered a drink in every house I have visited in America.

"Americans are half civilized and half educated," he said. He cited the action of a group of American doughboys on the west front on November 11, 1918. Although they learned at 9 a. m. that the war would end at 11 a. m. they kept shooting needlessly, he declared, to kill a few more while they had the chance.

JUDGE DUBUQUE PUTS KEANS ON PROBATION

Guy L. Keans of Somerville, who was found guilty of the larceny of leather from the Ayer Tanning Co. valued at $25,000, was placed on probation by Judge Dubuque in the Superior Criminal Court. Mitigating circumstances in favor of Keans led to leniency on the part of Judge Dubuque, it being shown that Keans was but a tool in the hands of Mark L. Gilbert, a fugitive from justice.

English Clergy Ask Marriage Service Amendment

London, Nov. 9.—An influential body of clergy, headed by Bishop Weldon, will ask the House of Clergy of the Church of England at next week's session of the church assembly to amend the marriage service.

It is desired to omit the word "obey" and the "giving away" question. Under the new service, if adopted, both the man and the woman will give rings and declare:

"With this ring I thee wed; with my body I thee honor; all my worldly goods with thee I share, in the name of God. Amen."

HARDING BUDGET CUT WILL STAND

Washington, Nov. 9.—President Coolidge is insisting that reductions ordered by President Harding in the expenditure of the federal government shall stand despite the protests of cabinet officers, whose quotas have been pared down by the budget bureau.

The budget for next year, now nearing completion, is expected to follow out strictly Mr. Hardding's stipulation that the total, exclusive of postal operations and public debt transactions, shall not exceed $1,700,000,000. For the current year the total is $1,826,000,000.

SEES NEW BATTLE OF ARMAGEDDON

"The world today is hastening to the battle of Armageddon and this battle, to be of short duration, will be followed by the complete establishment of the Messiah's kingdom of righteousness which will cure the present ills of humankind and bring peace and prosperity to the people."

This is the message of Judge Rutherford, president of the International Bible Students' Association, and internationally known lecturer, who speaks in Mechanics Building tomorrow afternoon under the auspices of the local I. B. S. A.

WOMEN ARE SHY OF NEW DIVORCE LAW

London, Nov. 9.—Women are not taking advantage of the new British divorce law whereby they can cast off the matrimonial shackles on the ground of misconduct alone, instead of having to prove, as in the past, desertion or cruelty as well.

There was no increase in the number of women seeking divorces, and the usual number of them are still seeking solace in the restitution of conjugal rights which calls a husband as ordered by the court to return to his wife.

Noted Society Horsewomen En Route for Hunting Trip in South

By BETTY ALDEN.

KEEN sportswomen that they are, Mrs Clarence L. Hay and Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., have gone to Virginia for a week or so of hunting. On their way South they took in the races at Belmont Park.

Mrs. Hay, who is pictured above as she appeared at a recent North Shore sporting event was formerly Miss Alice Appleton. And all the clan of Appleton are "to the saddle born." Major James W. Appleton, for instance, is master of the hounds at the Myopia Hunt Club, and his country home in Ipswich is filled with all manner of hunting trophies.

Slender, of medium height and a distinct brunette, Mrs. Hay is known as one of the smartest women of her set. Especially attractive are her dark, flashing eyes.

She somewhat resembles her sister, the former Ruth Appleton, who married William F. Wendell of the Boston Wendell family. Mrs. Wendell, who is decidedly petite and of somewhat darker complexion than Mrs. Hay, is quite a devotee of Terpsichore, whereas sister Alice prefers the saddle to the ballroom.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay, their Winter home is in New York, have been making a long Fall sojourn on the North Shore at "Beaver Pond," the Beverly estate of Amos A. Lawrence, who still lingers on foreign shores.

APROPOS of the North Shore, Mr. and Mrs. John F. A. Davis (Marjorie Thomas) have joined the year-round colony down Hamilton-Wenham way, having recently purchased an estate on Main street, Wenham.

Mr and Mrs Davis and their infant son have been with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Houston A. Thomas at "The Locusts" their Hamilton place.

MRS FREDERICK J. BRADLEE (Josephine de Gersdorff) is back in Southboro, following a visit in the Berkshires with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. de Gersdorff of New York. The de Gersdorffs closed their Stockbridge villa last week.

MR. S. HOOPER-HOOPER of Boston has been staying in New York at the Hotel Chatham, where other guests from Boston include Mrs. Gardiner M. Lane and her daughter, Miss Katherine Lane. The latter, I believe, are en route to Baltimore, where they will visit with Mrs. Lane's parents, and where Miss Lane a talented sculptress, is to exhibit some of her works.

MRS. ROBERT W. LOVETT of Fairfield street has concluded her annual Fall sojourn at Hot Springs and is returning North this week.

BACK in town for the season are Mr. and Mrs. Harold J. Coolidge, after a late season at their Pride's Crossing place known as "Ellerraps." The early part of the Summer the Coolidges spent traveling abroad, returning to the Shore for a stay before opening their town house on Berkeley street.

COMMUTERS IN ARMS TO FIGHT BOOST IN FARE

Charging that figures presented to the Public Utilities Commission by the railroads of the State in support of their petition to have commutation rates increased by twenty per cent. to be "false" and officials of the roads to be "liars" the Commuters Committee of Metropolitan Boston at a meeting in the State House prepared to fight the proposed increase.

The committee appointed a sub-committee of 29 members to prepare a united program to present next Wednesday to the Public Utilities Commission to prove the statements of the railroad officials to be incorrect.

The question of financing the fight of the commuters was the subject of a great deal of discussion.

An offer by Conrad W. Crooker, representing the minority stockholders committee of the Boston & Maine railroad, of a contribution of $1,000 to a fund for this purpose was withdrawn after members of the committee objected to making the body a "heavy organization."

"This is a people's organization," Jean P. Nickerson of Roslindale, secretary of the committee said, "and we don't want a money organization. If we accept money we will be called grafters. All the fights in the interests of the people have been won without money."

An offer by Mr. Crooker to give the use of his office was also withdrawn when it was suggested that the committee representing the general public should not become involved in the fight between the minority stockholders and the management of the road.

A motion was, however, adopted leaving it to the committee to raise money "if deemed necessary," and designating the Exchange Building No. 53 State street, as the place of meeting for the committee.

FORMER GRILL HEAD HELD AS $2,200 THIEF

Demitros J. Karadimos, former president of Claridge's Sea Grill, No. 615 Washington street, was arrested, charged with the theft on October 8 of $2,200 from the safe of that concern.

Karadimos was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Samuel L. White, treasurer of the concern, and issued by Judge Creed. Arraigned before Judge Burke in Municipal Court, the case was continued until November 15. Bail was fixed at $2,000, which was furnished.

LEGAL RESIDENCE OF COWS IN DOUBT

Bristol, Ct., Nov. 9.—In the legal residence of a cow in the barn in which she lives or in the home of her owner? This absorbing point of law is agitating the respective boards of assessors in the towns of Burlington and Bristol.

Harry L. Stone lives in Bristol, but his barn is just across the town line in Burlington. He has been assessed $40 per cow by the Bristol assessors, and $50 per cow by the Burlington board. The local solons are greatly perplexed over this knotty legal problem, and even the cows are said to be running dry.

FORMER JOHNSON AID VISITS "CAL"

Washington, Nov. 9.—Ralph B. Strassburger of Norristown, Pa., who was connected with the Johnson campaign in 1920, and who announced a few days ago that Senator Johnson would declare himself soon as to his intentions regarding the 1924 campaign, had a brief conference with President Coolidge. He said he could not discuss his talk with the President, but indicated he intended to have another conference with him in a few days.

MAIL MAN DROPS DEAD BOWLING

Nashua, Nov. 9.—William E. Dobens, fifty four, veteran mail carrier, dropped dead while bowling at the Social Alleys. Mr. Dobens was formerly a well known ball player and athlete, and for years was a bowling enthusiast. He has been in the post office service thirty years.

TRY THIS TUNE ON AN EMPTY POCKETBOOK

Milk's a milk.

A cow's a cow.

Does it cost any more to feed a Bossy in New England than it does in the State of New York?

Then why this

New York, Nov. 9.—A reduction next Monday in the producers' base price for fluid milk from $3.45 to $2.80 per 100 pounds, equivalent to a little more than 1 cent a quart to the consumer, was announced tonight by the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association Inc.

As against this

Brockton, Nov. 9. An increase of one cent in the retail price of milk was announced today by local officers of the New England Milk Producers' Association. The present price is 15 cents per quart.

The increase to distributors will be three quarters of a cent.

Folks around Boston are paying 17 cents a quart for their milk.

CHARGE PLOT TO SELL DISEASED POLICE DOGS

An alleged plot to sell a shipment of thirty-four diseased and crippled German police dogs at a public auction in Boston has been unearthed by officials of the Shepherd Dog Club of New England. Officers of the club found that out of thirty four dogs, which came from Hamburg at the order of a Boston animal concern, three had died and the rest are more dead than alive.

The dogs are now being held at the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals' Building on Carver street.

It was there that Adolph Lederhos, president Edward W. Manahan treasurer George W. Crafts, vice president, and Harold J. Cunningham of the Shepherd Dog Club, which has members throughout New England, declare they found the dogs in such a condition that it is a pity to let many of them live.

The refusal of the animal firm to pay $900 for the dogs and $300 taxes because they alleged that the dogs are not in proper condition has resulted in the animals being kept in two closed kennels on board the steamship Bayern, which arrived from Hamburg two weeks ago. Complaints of the ship owners caused government officials to have the animals transferred to the M. S. P. C. A.

"A government official told me that these dogs must have literally been picked up from the gutters of German towns and sent to Boston," said Mr. Lederhos.

NAVAL OFFICER READY TO PAY FOR BLUNDER

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 9.—Captain Edward H. Watson, commander of Destroyer Squadron No. 11, said after the naval court-martial into the Honda disaster case went into executive session, that he was "ready and anxious to take his medicine."

"I don't want an acquittal," declared Watson who has been in the navy 32 years.

"For me to be completely acquitted by this court would be bad for the naval service in which both my father and myself have devoted our lives," he said. "I believe that no man in charge of vessels of the Navy at sea should get away clear when seven ships are wrecked and 23 lives are lost.

"I made a seaman's decision and it was an error. I am ready to abide by the consequences of that error. But I must insist that the mistake was one of error in judgement, and was misinformation which gave incorrect estimation of conditions, not the mistake of culpable inefficiency."

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

—Yet 91% Needlessly!

Science discovers falling hair and dandruff infection (Seborrhea). New overcomes it, with startling results in hair growth.

New Hair in 90 Days—Guaranteed in Writing

Falling hair stopped, new hair grown in 90 days, or money back! Baldness is not a disease, science now shows. It is merely a symptom of infection—infection of the scalp oil, Sebum. The infected Sebum, dermatologists have recently learned, is responsible for 90% of all hair troubles.

Sebum (oil) forms at the follicles of the hair. Its healthy function is to supply the hair with oil. But often it takes on the scalp. It forms a breeding place for bacteria. It clings to hair and destroys it. It lodges in hair follicles and plugs them. Then germs by the millions start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness soon is marked. Then often comes total baldness.

You can see this Sebum on your scalp, in the form of an oily excretion. Or, when dried, as dandruff. But it rarely kills the roots. Hence, when you remove it, new hair grows. This is a scientific fact—medical authorities will tell you so. You must remove the infected Sebum.

Now, a Treatment for the Infected Sebum

Science has found how to deal with the infected Sebum. The method is a new one. Note how it is applied. It is called Van Ess Liquid Massage. And it is 90% effective.

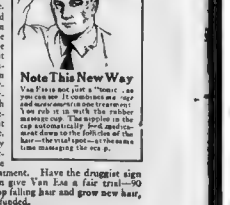
This new method penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It combats the Sebum and removes it. Results are remarkable. They are quick. In three weeks it stops falling hair. It grows new hair with further use.

Falling hair stopped—new hair grown in 90 days! We know the statements we make are amazing—almost incredible. But remember, we back them with an absolute guarantee. There is a guarantee in the top of each package. Read it first before you buy. Note that we let you be the judge.

Go today to any drug store or department store. Obtain the 3-bottle Van Ess Treatment. Have the druggist sign the guarantee. Then give Van Ess a fair trial—90 days. If it doesn't stop falling hair and grow new hair, your money will be refunded.

We take all the risk. If we succeed, the benefits are yours. And they are worth many times the price we ask. If we fail—the loss is ours. So for your own sake we urge you to try it at once.

VAN ESS LABORATORIES, 28 E. Kinzie St. Chicago, Ill.



Note This New Way

Van Ess is not just a "tonic"—as you can see. It combines an easy and more scientific treatment. You rub it in with the rubber massage cap. The applier in the cap automatically feed medicine down to the follicles of the hair—the vital spot—at the same time massaging the scalp.

VAN ESS Liquid Scalp Massage

Costs Nothing

Unless we grow hair. The Van Ess 3-bottle Treatment is absolutely guaranteed. The warrant is given by your own druggist. All we require is his signature showing you have purchased a ninety-day treatment. If it fails we refund your money. You assume no risk making this test.

LITTLE OLD NEW YORK

A Delightful Romance with an Unusual Heroine

This Story Will Be Shown Soon in Motion Pictures Starring Marion Davies at One of Your Favorite Theatres in Boston

Pat (Marion Davies) pulls the hair of Bully Boy Brewster

THE STORY SO FAR

Larry Delavan, a fashionable young man in the days when Fulton was perfecting his steamboat in New York, expects that his stepfather will leave him his large fortune. When John Jacob Astor reads the will he discovers that all the property goes to a nephew, Patrick O'Day, in Ireland. Astor is made trustee and Larry guardian of the heir. Delavan is terribly disappointed. The O'Day family is about to be evicted from their poor home in Ireland, when a strange solicitor appears and informs them of their good fortune. Patricia, disguised as her brother, who dies on the trip, and her father, arrive in New York. Delavan becomes interested in Robert Fulton's steamboat and promises $10,000 of the expenses. It has a successful trial trip and Pat saves it from falling into Schuyler's hands by a bluff. Larry backs Bully Boy Brewster in a prize fight.

By Rida Johnson Young,
Whose Plays Have Won Her a High Place Among American Playwrights.

"Little Old New York," from the Broadway Success of That Name, by Rida Johnson Young, Has Been Created Into a Superlative Motion Picture by Cosmopolitan Productions—Direction of Sidney Olcott—Adapted by Luther Reed.

THAT must lead, Pat guessed, to the tower in which was hung the great bells she heard sounded a score of times or more since he had come—the bell that gave warning to all New York that fire had broken out.

The fire house was a great meeting place, as Pat knew. The firemen were all volunteers, and the house was, for them, much like a club. Only two or three of them, chosen in rotation, slept in the house at night; enough to start the wagons and the hose reels out, while the rest of the company, at the sound of the alarm bell, would come swiftly as possible from their homes.

Pat liked the looks of the helmets and uniform coats, hung neatly on hooks on the wall at one side of the room. The whole place was neat and clean. But the sight of Rachel Brewster soon turned her thoughts into less pleasant channels.

Rachel was in her glory, making ready for the crowd. She had set up both a bar and a refreshment booth, and to this latter Delmonico, who, what with his restaurant and his task of catering for the trial trip of the Clermont, had had the busiest day of his career, had just brought a great basket full of sandwiches.

"You're late, you tricky Italian, you," said Rachel.

"I cannot help" said Delmonico, with many gestures. "My beautiful restaurant is full of fine gentlemen!"

Rachel shrugged her shoulders and busied herself counting the sandwiches. But old Bunny, the night watchman, half the night police force of the city, indeed, grunted.

"These new fangled notions will be the ruin of New York!" he said. "Time was when a man's house was good enough for him to eat in, without wastin' his money in restaurants!"

Delmonico smiled ingratiatingly.

"The times change, signor!" he said. "Last night I had ten customers for fried oysters! What do you think of that?"

"All right—all right!" said Rachel. "How much, Delmonico?"

Delmonico hesitated as he looked back and forth from the great pile of sandwiches to Rachel.

"Would fifty cents be too much?" he said, deprecatingly.

"Fifty cents!" shrieked Rachel. "You robber! Where am I to make a profit if you take it all?"

"You do not know!" said Delmonico. "It is terrible—the way the price of food goes up and up! I work all day and make nothing!"

"Oh, take it and go," said Rachel.

Bunny listened to the din at the door turned to Rachel then, with rather an anxious look.

"I hope you won't let them Butcher Hiller's toughs get too much rum, Rachel, or they'll go rampagin' down Broadway, smashin' lanterns and the like all night long."

"Spare yourself worry, Bunny," she said. "The barrels are bloods. There'll be plenty of them here, now that Mr. Delavan's backing the fighter. Here's good enough for the other and I promise you I'll not be too strong even for you."

"Ha h I don't know where to be," said Reilly. "They'll be opening the doors next, and then will be too late!"

And, as if to point what he had said, Bunny turned to Rachel.

Heavy Betting

"Maybe I'd better be letting them in, Rachel. There's heavy betting on the fight and most of it on the Terror, from what I hear. They sound as if they wouldn't wait much longer."

"Will I open, then?"

"Wait—I'll just run over to the house and see if Mr. Delavan and my brother are ready yet. They'll be patient that much longer."

She turned toward the back door, and started as she saw Reilly and Pat. She hated Pat, having even that she had tried to stand in her way with Larry.

"What do you want here?" she said sharply.

"To see Mr. Delavan—where is he?" said Reilley.

Rachel swallowed her anger.

"At our house," she said. "I'll tell him you're here."

But Bunny proved to be an obstacle less easily surmounted. As he spied Pat he came toward them.

"You can't bring that lad in here," he said to Reilly. "It's against the law to allow minors at a fight."

"We're only waiting to see Mr. Delavan," said Reilley.

"Why couldn't you say so at once?" grumbled Bunny. "All right—stay till he comes. But the boy must go then or I'll arrest him."

Against the Law

But just then the tumult at the doors was redoubled. Bunny started anxiously and ran toward them. But before he could reach them they gave way under the pressure of the mob, and the crowd came pouring in. None heeded Bunny's petty efforts to drive it back, and he was swept down before it. Reilley and Pat were swallowed up and forced apart.

Pat was half glad once her first fright was over, to be free. But her joy was short lived, but Bunny spied her and, glad of a chance to assert his authority over some one who must heed him, ordered her out. She tried, without much confidence, to face him down; at once the crowd swarmed about the rallying point thus provided. Reilley came up and joined her again.

"Sure, and 'tis no use, Pat—you must go," he whispered.

"Good old Bunny—put the boy out—put him out—no place for him!" The crowd took up the cry. But suddenly Pat turned and, wriggling free from the grasp of Reilley's hand upon her arm, dodging under Bunny's arm, that was put out to stop her, got clear and faced the crowd.

"You men!" she cried. "Is there one Irishman here?

WHAT THE STARS SAY

LUCKY DAY FOR LOVERS.

AN active and generally successful day may be forecast from this day's lunar movements. Under the strong Uranian position there is the prospect of an important change or journey, which should redound to eventual advantage, yet there may be a menace from duplicity, misrepresentation or ill-advised friendships. It is a lucky day for lovers.

Tomorrow beware of long journeys, the stars say.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

NOISES IN THE EAR

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.,
(Former President of the American Medical Association.)

YOU, of course, have seen a snail shell.

If so, you have a fair idea of the human ear.

Dr. Reed

There is the outer expanded portion that you always see and the canal that goes as far as a little membrane that stretches across it like the diaphragm of a telephone and is called the "drum head" or "ear drum."

It is in this internal ear that connection is made with the trunk of the nerve, called the auditory nerve by which sounds are "telephoned" to the brain.

These sounds or sound waves generally originate outside the head, and their transmission through the ear drum and the cavity of the middle ear, and the curved canal of the internal ear and thence over the auditory nerve to the brain—our automatic telephonic system—comprise the function or special sense of hearing.

But sometimes sounds do not originate outside the head, but in this internal ear itself.

In cases in which the trouble is within the ear itself, the condition is one of irritation by pressure upon the little nerve endings, or as the result of a lowered blood quality, or from too high blood pressure.

These cases of "noises in the ear" were formerly recognized as hopeless, but now, when the trouble is really in the ear and not the brain, many of them are cured.

The cure depends upon a recognition of the natural law of cause and effect, or upon the principle that if the cause is removed the effect must disappear.

The object of this article is to hold up a ray of hope to those despairing cases and to urge them without delay to seek the most competent advice.

WAYS OF A HUSBAND

SEQUEL TO "WHEN A GIRL MARRIES"

By Ann Lisle

"PROBABLY," Ralph went on easily. "Pat went up to consult Jeannie. She suggested that he drive you here and that I hurry you along the road to Jim. I believe she is getting ready to come if he wants her. But the more fact that she isn't on her way to Jim ought to tell you that the accident isn't serious enough to be so white and pale and trembly over that it shows through that chiffon veil."

"I'll try to get a grip on myself," I answered submissively.

Ralph let out the ear a notch or two and we went skimming along the country road with a wake of motors and a rush of wind precluding conversation—but not thought.

I sat and pondered. That Aunt May had sent me off with Ralph was consistent. She winged me to rely on his friendship in every possible situation. That Virginia had advised that Ralph motor me to Jim was also consistent. It fitted perfectly with the conversation which had ended in my flight from Dreamwold.

I set my teeth at thought of Virginia's high handed way of forcing things. But why Virginia hadn't rushed to Jim's side wasn't understandable. Even if his hurt were as slight as I longed to believe Virginia's love for Jim should have prompted her to go to him—and under most conditions it would have led her to just that thing.

It was uncomfortable to have to suspect everyone of motives and plans. But it was worse not to be able to fathom quite what our friends were up to. In the back of my brain I suspected—but I wouldn't allow my suspicion to come to the front of my mind and claim even enough attention to amount to a denial of what I feared.

Whatever the plotting and planning amount to," I told myself, "there's one thing every one must reckon with I love Jim. I always will. And I love him enough to face anything—as long as he wants me in his life."

Ralph, who has the comfortable gift of sharing a silence without intruding on it, drove along at a whirling rate of speed. Suddenly I realized that we should by now be approaching the bridge leading to town.

"Where are we?" I asked. "We're not going home."

"No," said Ralp. "We're on our way to Marmount Hills, and it will take the fastest driving I can get away with to bring us there by ten tonight."

"Oh!" I gasped. "I won't get to Jim until ten! Why didn't they send me by train?"

"That would have meant three changes and a long, dusty, hot trip, Anne. And it wouldn't have saved much time. The best you could have managed would have been to make it by nine."

"Did Aunt May look up the trains?" I asked.

"No—she didn't think of it. I studied the time tab.e," exclaimed Ralph.

Again silence fell between us. Although I was certain, as far as the logic of things was concerned, that Jim couldn't be seriously hurt, I was miserably apprehensive. All sorts of terrors shocked at my heart. I found my imagination running away with me. It seemed to me that if Jim came to any serious harm—off like this—with his new friends—I couldn't bear it. I rallied myself to speak.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys With Jad Salts

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of troubles due to disordered kidneys.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize acids so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

CHAPMAN AND DREW CLASH IN TITLE RING BOUT TONIGHT

CHAMPION 10 TO 8 CHOICE; SHEPPARD VS. OWENS

By JACK CONWAY.

Red Chapman, world's junior featherweight champion, will toss his title into the ring when he battles with Johnny Drew of Worcester in a ten-round skirmish at the Commercial A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building tonight. It is the most important contest between little men staged in this city in many months and is expected to furnish a stirring engagement.

Chapman, conqueror of Lou Paluso, Terry Martin and Andy Chaney, will be battling with his back against the wall tonight. All because Drew has already proved he has the class to win over Chapman. When these two men recently met at Worcester, the decision went to Drew.

Referee Jimmy Walsh of Boston, who was master of ceremonies in the ring, declared after the match that Drew gave one of the best exhibitions of boxing he had ever witnessed. Furthermore, Drew also proved he could punch, scoring a knockdown in the second round. The margin of victory, however, was only a slight one.

Chapman attributed his defeat to the fact that Drew had failed to come in at weight. As a result of the weight controversy at Worcester Drew was obliged to post a weight forfeit for his mill tonight. So did Chapman. Consequently the vanquished boxer will not be able to make a squawk on this score.

WORCESTER FANS COMING TO ROOT FOR DREW.

There is great interest in the meeting of these Cushy fighters. Chelsea and Dorchester will back Chapman to win, while from Worcester will come a delegation of 500 fans who will give their support to Drew. They saw the Jackie Williams entry win over Chapman at Worcester and they figure he can also accomplish this feat here in Boston.

Wood and Gilmore are handling 10 to 8 favorite in the betting. This does not mean anything, however. At Worcester the wise boys were offering odds of 10 to 3 that Chapman would win. The shorteners had a field day after the decision had been rendered in favor of Drew.

SHEPPARD AND OWENS CLASH IN SEMI-FINAL.

You will also get plenty of action in the semi-final of eight rounds. Johnny Sheppard, rugged Woburn battler, is billed to oppose the clever Paddy Owens of Cambridge.

Two more eights will complete the card. Chick Cavanaugh of Cambridge will meet Joe Pantrace of Quincy, while Marty Dandino of Worcester will swap blows with Paul De Salvo of Quincy.

Reasons may be secured at the Commercial Club's office, Room 8, No. 28 School street.

If Ted Moore, English light heavyweight, can show half the form Tod (Kid) Lewis did when he first came to America, he should give Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia a stiff rating argument at the Faneuil A. C.'s show at Mechanics Building on next Wednesday night.

Red Stoller is keeping his "stable" of boxers busy. He has Harry Foley, heavy hitting North End southpaw, billed to meet Eddie Williams of East Boston in the ten-round final at the Armory A. A.'s show at the Grand Opera House on next Tuesday night, while Tommy Myers of Montreal, another one of Red's hatters, will swap blows with Jimmy Reed of Brockton in the semi-final of eight frames.

If confidence means anything, Pal Reed of Natick should walloop Johnny Wilson for a fare-thee-well when they clash in a ten-round number at the Suffolk A. A.'s show at the Boston Arena on next Friday night. It will be remembered that when Reed and Wilson met over three years ago, many fans figured Pal won. The Natick battler says he will repeat with a kaye next Friday night. There is great interest in this bout.

Jack Conway Picks Red Chapman and Sheppard to Win

Jack Conway, holder of the world's record for picking winners, sizes right into the picture with the "inside" slant on tonight's Commercial A. C. show at Mechanics Building.

"You'll have plenty of chance to do some cheering when Red Chapman and Johnny Drew start tossing blows around," says Jack. "When these boys recently collided at Worcester, Drew knocked Chapman to the canvas in the second frame. It was then a rip-tearing battle until the end of the tenth frame when the decision went to Drew.

"We are stringing along with Chapman tonight. We figure that Red will fight better than he did against Terry Martin and Andy Chaney, both of whom he defeated, and thus grab the decision.

"For the semi-final we favor Johnny Sheppard to toss Paddy Owens for a loss."

DARTMOUTH IS HERE FOR THE BROWN GAME

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 9—Dartmouth's varsity squad, composed of thirty-three players, limbered up on Memorial Field and then took the buses to White River Junction, where they departed for Boston and the Brown game.

Cy Aschenbach

Silence pervaded the white Green camp as the players left town.

Coach Hawley realizes the strength of the Brown eleven, and had more cause to fear them this week because of the bad weather in Hanover and necessity of getting up on practice sessions.

Several slight injuries have accounted a let up for a number of the regulars, but Trainer Watson claimed all the men on the trip to be in the best condition.

Neither Cubbins, substitute guard for Diehl, nor Ahlquist, substitute fullback, made the journey owing to injuries which may keep them out of all the remaining games.

Although Coach Hawley will not decide upon a lineup until after the practice session at Fenway Park this afternoon, it is probable he will send in the following players to face Coach Robin Dearborn:

Diehman, l. e.; Oberlander, l. t.; Diehl, l. g.; Ellis, c.; Ashenback, r. g.; Hatch, r. t.; Wilkins, r. e.; Dooley, q. b.; Kelley, l. h., Hawkins, l. h., Leavitt or Murphy, f. b.

Other players on the trip are Ends, Hazenbrickle, Maloney, Orvell, Stapleton, and Reeder, fullbacks, Loomis and Murphy.

The undergraduate body of the college is not so enthused over the prospects of a Green victory this week as they were when the Centenary eleven invaded town last Saturday.

Little money has been placed, and only a small percentage of the number of students that journeyed to Fenway Park last year are planning to leave tomorrow for the game.

The athletic council has disposed of 4000 tickets to date, including the applications from alumni in and about Boston.

'BO' ORDERS CENTENARY PLAYERS TO WIN

"You've got it in you to win, and it's up to you to bring it out." Thus spoke Coach Bo McMillin to his Centenary College squad at the workout on Braves Field.

The former Centre star, clad in his colorful green and gold jersey, went on to tell, as all mentors do, that the winning of a game rests with the players and not with the coach.

The consensus of opinion among the players is that they will bring out their stuff and turn the trick against Boston College. It was in this spirit that they entrained for Boston and this is the spirit that will fire them when they run onto the field tomorrow in their maroon and white jerseys.

Most of the players on the team are local stock, as only a few attend the college who are not from Louisiana. All are huskies and have been causing quite a little comment in Boston by their display of sombreros.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

—By B. C. Forbes—

When extremes are reached, beware.

Remember that the unusual is not usual, that the abnormal is not normal, and that the abnormal and the abnormal do not last.

Far more money is lost by advertising for stocks towards the bought of a boom than is lost by buying when prices are extremely low or by selling when quotations are extremely high.

In exactly the same way more business enterprises go bankrupt through excessively ordering enormous quantities of goods when business has almost reached a breaking point than through stocking up when business is dull and prices on an attractive basis.

At the moment there is spectacular buying of cotton. The quotation has risen to within ten cents a pound of the dizzy peak reached during the post-war boom, in July, 1920.

This week's price is nearly ten cents a pound above the maximum touched in 1922.

Because of our natural tendency to fly to extremes, cotton quotations may be carried even above the thirty-two cent mark—essarily, they may not.

Regardless of that, 25 cents a pound is far from being a normal price for cotton, and it is certain that goods manufactured from such raw material will not find as ready and broad a market as would moderately-priced cottons.

• • •

Recently it was pointed out in this column that high grade investment stocks were being forced down to unreasonably low levels.

The pressure continued month after month, carrying quotations abnormally far down.

But, as always, the abnormal did not last permanently. All of a sudden, Wall Street realized that it had been carrying bearishness to extremes, and there was a sudden retracing of steps. The recovery, can go a considerable distance further without raising the quotations for most investment stocks to an irrational level.

Similarly, when wheat became depressed, a great many persons talked and acted as if it would never, never again command a decent price. The breaking of the quotation below the dollar mark in Chicago was heralded as a signal that wheat was going to fall out of sight, and the bearish operators indulged in a glorious picnic.

Well, wheat can no longer be bought in Chicago at $1 per bushel. In New York cash wheat has been selling at over $1.25.

Corn has enjoyed a spell of abnormal rise. Less than a year ago cash corn in New York sold above $1.32 a bushel. It is now 20 cents a bushel lower. In Chicago December corn has, this week, sold around 75 cents, or less than 9 cents above the corresponding quotation a year ago.

• • •

And do you not clearly recall how rampantly optimistic almost everyone became around last New Year? Orders were given recklessly in nearly every direction. Prices soared. We were going to have a boom that was to "beat" anything to match the war-inflated boom of 1920.

That abnormal condition quickly changed.

And then, almost in a trice, everything was heading for the bow-wows! We were warned from all sides. Orders ceased. Prices fell. Scrambling for workers ended.

A panic, the alarmists shrieked was on the way.

That extreme attitude likewise vanished in a few months.

At present one hears little or no talk covering the whole country from "the banker to the plowman in the country has never known," to—well, severe depression.

What is the lesson to be derived from calm consideration of this brief recital?

Spare no effort to gather all the information, all the facts and figures and responsible views you possibly can. Do your own thinking, reach your own conclusions. Refuse to be thrown into either panic or ecstasy by the extreme mood which happened to be in vogue, and formulate your plans with cool, deliberate unbiased judgment.

Beware of concluding that extremes that abnormal conditions will go on and on.

They don't. They won't.

America in Line to Assume World Leadership in Trade With Overseas Boom

BUYING POWER IS STRONGEST ON EARTH

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

New England business tenders accept the view that America is in line to assume world leadership in trade just as soon as the revival gets under way over-seas.

This nation's buying power is today the strongest on earth.

We have seen it demonstrated that increased production raises the average standard of living and increases the surplus any nation has for securing needed goods from abroad.

By this measure, if Europe succeeds in producing more of the things she requires, she will at the same time herself be able to make more purchases from the United States.

SILVER LINING.

Our production, happily, is by no means at capacity. If it were, we would be unable to meet the expected demand for our products. So there is, after all, a silver lining to the cloud of international clouds may lie upon our horizon.

Julius H. Barnes, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, says:

"If Europe increases her production of wealth—that is, if her factories are busy, wages are being paid and goods are being produced for consumption at home and abroad—her call upon us for agricultural and manufactured products is bound to increase.

"It is probable that, if a study were made of six-month periods, it could be shown that European imports of raw and semi-finished materials for conversion into finished products in her factories would show a steady climb since the war ended.

MEANS STEADY GROWTH.

"That means steady growth in employment for her people, for these raw materials must pass through a manufacturing process before they can be used.

"At three hundred millions begin to earn again, and to buy, to fill the vacuum of human needs in Europe, then the factories of the world will start again at full speed. Normally, Europe with one-quarter of the world's population, consumes three-quarters of the world's surplus products.

"When that day comes we in America, who have increased the economy of mass production by highly paid workmen, who have attained a standard of living, will hold the leadership of the trade of the world."

GENERAL MOTORS' REGULAR DIVIDEND

General Motors declared regular quarterly dividends of 30 cents on common, $1.75 on 7 per cent. debenture, $1.50 on 6 per cent. debenture and $1.50 on 6 per cent preferred. Common dividend is payable Dec 12 to stock of record Nov. 30. Debenture and preferred dividends are payable Feb. 1 to stock of record Jan. 7.

PLYMOUTH GAS TO PUT OUT BONDS

Department of Public Utilities has approved issue by Plymouth Gas Light Company of mortgage bonds, at not less than par, to amount of $[illegible],000, within one year. Interest is not to exceed 6 per cent. per annum. Proceeds are to be applied to cancellation of floating debt.

Dividend Declarations

UNION PACIFIC declared quarterly 2½ per cent common dividend, payable Jan. 2, stock of record Dec. 6.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC declared quarterly 2½ per cent. dividend, payable Jan. 2, stock of record Nov. 30.

RAIL EARNINGS ARE CITED BY MOODY'S

Moody's Weekly Review of Financial Conditions in its current issue says:

"Railroad earnings and income in the cases of many roads are so exceeding 6 per cent. on the property value as to make the recapture provision of the Transportation Act an important matter. The straws indicate that railroads may eventually have to pay into the treasury 50 per cent. and that these will be a deduction from the earning power of the best railroad stocks.

"Mere existence of the continent fund, however, which would be a revolving fund for financing weak roads, would have a tremendous position of junior railroad bonds by protecting them against financial embarrassment. Perhaps investors are needlessly sacrificing some of these low grade bonds. They evidently are if the recapture clause is to be enforced—as seems rather probable.

"Whether the short coverings in the stock market was mere coincidence or not, it promptly facilitated the sale of the big issues of American Telephone bonds. There is nothing so cheering to investors as a buoyant stock market. Yet no subsequent change has lately occurred in the practical position of either the stock market or any of our leading industries.

"Sterling exchange seems to be settling into a stronger position. The British buying of grain and cotton will should now be about finished and the position of Great Britain, both foreign and domestic, is definitely improving. Thus sterling bills especially around the latter part of this month may prove a pretty good investment.

MARION DAVIES' NEW FILM NEAR COMPLETION

PHOTOGRAPHY on "Mary of Burgundy," Marion Davies' next big super feature, is nearly nearing completion at the Lasky studios and according to director Robert G. Vignola, will be finished within a week. The remaining sequences to be filmed are those in and around the palace of King Louis XI. of France, impersonated by Holbrook Blinn. These scenes are being "shot" at night behind the Cosmopolitan studio, a gigantic set having been constructed

PATSY RUTH MILLER, now being shown at Tremont Temple in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," has been cast for the leading role in "A Tale of Red Rome," a screen adaptation of George Randolph Chester's novel Miss Miller is only eighteen, but she belongs to the intelligentsia. She can discuss Einstein's theory, advanced literature or golfing with anybody.

GLORIA SWANSON will appear as a boy in motion pictures for the second time in her career in "The Humming Bird," which Stanley Olcott is now producing at the Paramount Long Island studio. It will be the first time, probably, that many of her admirers will see her in masculine garb, because her first appearance in such a role was in a Sennett comedy made several years ago.

FENWAY READY FOR REOPENING TOMORROW

The newest addition to the list of beautiful photoplay houses of the country is the Fenway, on Massachusetts avenue, now out of the hands of decorators and ready for its reopening tomorrow, with a Paramount program.

The first picture to be shown under the new management will be Pola Negri in "The Spanish Dancer," a Herbert Brenon production, and a Paramount picture that is said to be the greatest in which Pola Negri has ever appeared—foreign or American.

Old patrons of the Fenway will hardly recognize the house in its new dress, for the interior has been completely made over to meet the requirements of the enlarged and spectacular programs it is proposed to present. There not only will be a superlature feature in each bill but there will be supplemented by a symphony orchestra program, news and comedy reels and special stage novelties.

Barrett McCormick, managing director of the Fenway, has personally directed the improvements and additions that have been made in the theatre, and he announces that no item of expense has been spared that would add to the comfort and delight of the patrons. Under the new management the Fenway will become practically a Paramount house, as it is to be operated on the same scale and under the same plan as the great chain of Paramount theatres that stretch from New York to the West Coast.

COAL FOR POOR IS VOLUNTEERS' PLAN

Colonel Walter Duncan of the Volunteers of America is planning the greatest Thanksgiving distribution ever held by organization. There are now four Volunteer posts in the city and there will be baskets containing dinners distributed from each post, with the main distribution at the Howard street headquarters.

A feature of the baskets that will be given to needy old folks this year will be jars of home-made jellies and preserves.

Another feature of this year's distribution will be the free coal for the needy poor.

Roosevelt Club Luncheon

On Thursday, December 6, the Roosevelt Club will give a luncheon at the American House at 12.30, open to the public. Thomas Mott Osborne, formerly warden of Sing Sing prison, will be the only speaker.

CONVENTION HALL FOR MANOIR RICHELIEU.

The Canada S. S. Lines Limited announce that plans have been approved to build a convention hall capable of seating 600 people in connection with the well-known Manoir Richelieu Hotel located at Murray Bay, Quebec.

Above the hall a number of choicely-located rooms will also be built and the hotel in general will be reconditioned. A large garage will be constructed to take care of the cars of patrons.

These additions will be completed before the opening of the season, and the management will be in a position to take care of conventions scheduled for the month following July 15th and after September 1st.

N. E. HOTEL ASSN. MEETING MARKED SUCCESS.

Over 400 members of the New England Hotel Association gathered at the Hotel Bancroft in Worcester Wednesday and Thursday of last week, at one of the most delightful conventions ever held by this body.

Manager Charles S. Averill is well known as a patron of hotels and equivalent himself in the entertainment provided. The speakers at the business meeting included Arthur L. Race of the Hotel Statler Hotel, Mr. E. B. Rich of the Vendome, and Mr. E. R. Mayer, author of "Mixer's Motor Maps and Tours." Mr. A. F. Hancock, from New York city, and Mr. J. Newcomb of the Boston & Maine Railway.

The spirit of Hallowe'en reigned at the banquet given on Wednesday evening in the grand ball room of the Bancroft, and two ply business address made by Arthur L. Race, who announced that the itinerary of the European delegates from the International Hotel Alliance will include Boston.

The party will arrive at 3:16 p. m. leaving Boston at 8:00 a. m. the following morning, and be met by the hotel men of New England to finance and provide an entertainment that will do them proud.

THE ALAMAC A MODERN WONDER

The last word in modern hotels is found in the new Alamac, Broadway and 49th Street, New York City, a twenty story edifice which embodies some very unusual conveniences, before incorporated in any hotel in the world, under the management of Harry Lats.

This new structure offers the privacy of home, combined with the gaiety of a modern metropolitan hotel. Among the unusual features of the Alamac are private taxi service, flowers every morning for every guest, baskets of fruit twice a week, rooms designed to save steps and avoid stamps, valet service system, well trained servants, spacious corridors, are but a few of the many modern features found there.

The hotel has three dining-rooms a Congo room, blue room, and the medieval grill offer the finest in culinary art, under the supervision of the internationally known Adam Wosniak, late of the Hotel Claridge in London, and Pier's in New York.

One of the unusual features of the Alamac is a radio and receiving set. It receives bookings from Chicago, Boston, and many other cities via the air as well as reservations from guests on incoming steamers. As a headline in the Congo room the Alamac offers Paul Specht, famed Keith Circuit headliner and Columbia recording artist, as well as a chaotic dance by Vitor Rokahontoski who hopes to capture the heart of New York with his African interpretation of "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

The Alamac was erected at the cost of over five million dollars.

GEHRING WILL BE HOST TO LADIES

Charles E. Gehring, publisher of the National Hotel Review, has reserved the entire orchestra at the Greenwich Village Follies on the evening of Thursday, November 22 when he will be host to the ladies attending the National Hotel Exposition in New York City the week of November 19.

While the ladies are at the theatre the gentlemen will attend the annual banquet of New York State Hotel Association at the Commodore. Following the party the men will call at the theatre for the ladies and the entire party will go to the Plaza for a supper-dance as the guests of Fred Stierry and L. C. Poke.

The Gehring theatre party is one of the big features of the annual gathering.

HARVARD-YALE NIGHT AT LENOX AND BRUNSWICK

Reservations are being made for Harvard-Yale night, November 24, at the Hotels Lenox and Brunswick. At the Lenox a special dinner will be served from 6:00 to 8:30 p. m. at $4 a cover, with dancing—and from 9:00 to 12:30 a supper with dancing at $5 a cover.

Reservations should be made early and tickets purchased through the head waiter. The Lenox will be a special celebration in the Egyptian Room and Cafe of the Brunswick, Leo F. Reismann's Orchestra.

FILIPINOS SAY U. S. IS BEING DECEIVED

By JOHN T. LAMBERT.

Washington, Nov. 9 (C.N.S.).—The same sort of propaganda that was used to misrepresent Russia is now being spread through the country to discredit the "demand of the Filipino people for relief from the autocratic sway of Governor Leonard Wood," according to charges made today by the official Philippine Commission of Independence.

One of the recent dispatches quoted Representative G. V. Fajon, a Moro leader, as saying that the Moros are "rioting" against the possibility of Filipino independence. The statement was made in reply to Piang, but by his seventeen-year-old brother. Piang today cabled this statement:

"Every story to the effect that the Moros hate our Christian brethren and will revolt if Filipino independence is granted is a pure fabrication, intended to create animosity between Moro and Christian Filipinos. No matter what creeds or colors we are Filipinos always and forever."

Another despatch credited the Moro "uprisings" to alleged misgovernment of the Moros by the Filipino Legislature. "Representative Tampugao, Moro member of that legislature, cabled this message:

"We are contented with what the government is doing for us. We pay our taxes because tax paying is essential to the running of the government. It is untrue that sentiment among the Moros is against the education of our youth, education and enlightenment assure our future."

Manuel Quezon president of the Filipino Senate, cabled this message:

"The advertised 'revolt' did no occur and aroused only the amusement of decent people. The story was absurd anti-independence propaganda. The truth is the Filipino people are practically unanimous against General Wood's policies, but continue to have the utmost confidence in the good intentions of the American Congress and the American people."

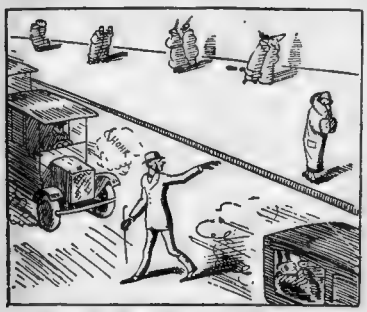
Jay Walkers, All Kinds, All Ages

Here's a Sample by Powers

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.



HERE'S THE KIND THAT GETS RUN OVER. JAY WALKER No. 1.

This little picture is made by Mr. T. E. Powers, Democrat, good citizen, merciless enemy of the automobile speeder, but also mild and wise critic of the "jay walker."

DON'T BE A JAY WALKER

Don't forget that the ordinary street today is as dangerous as a railroad track and MORE dangerous. The locomotive at least keeps on the track. The automobile can go anywhere on the street.

Remember that you are living in the "automobile age."

It is just as much your duty to make automobiling convenient and safe as it is the duty of the driver to make the pedestrian safe.

The SIDEWALK belongs to you. The STREETS belong to automobiles, under certain restrictions as to crossings, speed, etc.

This type of jay walker who turns around to say goodbye and walk directly in front of a car is the sort of jay walker that numbers hundreds of thousands.

DON'T BE A JAY WALKER

Will Rest at Arlington

Private George Dilboy of Massachusetts One of Outstanding Heroes of the World War

Massachusetts has been honored again by the burial of a Massachusetts private in the Great War at Arlington Cemetery, just outside of Washington, where the distinguished American dead are buried.

Private George Dilboy of Massachusetts will be buried there on November 12. He has been recognized as "one of the outstanding heroes of the World War." He was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor after his death.

He was a boy of Greek parentage. His platoon was being badly shot up by German machine gun fire, and the lieutenant in command wanted to find out how the machine gun nest could be flanked. Dilboy was just a lad, but he jumped up and said, "Lieutenant, I can wipe out those men with an automatic rifle." Said the lieutenant, "Go ahead."

Dilboy threw himself flat upon the ground and wiggled his way toward the German trench. He was shot twice by German sharpshooters before the German machine gunners came within range. Then he opened fire on them with his automatic rifle, killing several of the gunners. When only two were left, he rose, but the remaining gunners had a chance to turn their machine gun on him, and the rain of bullets literally cut off his right leg, and he dropped on his back and with his left foot pushed himself forward. Then he turned his head, aimed his last two shots and killed the remaining two Germans.

"Lying on his back, with his right hand uppermost, the lad motioned to his platoon to go forward, and died with a smile on his face."

Individual heroism is not confined to any race. But the heroism of numbers is largely a question of psychology, organization, history, past and present, economic conditions, the justice of a cause, and education.

Observe All

Condemn Nothing

Copyright, 1923, Star Co.

An able man of science was Steinmetz, who came here a crippled, hunchbacked, Jewish boy and died worth less than $20,000 after adding hundreds of millions to wealth of this country. Professor Karapetoff, in his tribute to Steinmetz describes him admirably in an article which includes this:

His life is a shining example of a quiet, straight and unswerving path amidst the turmoil of conflicting passions, avarice, extravagance, cure-alls, pseudo-science, pseudo-patriotism, pseudo life itself.

Nice writing, but once, and not so long ago, electrical science was called "pseudo-science"; within a hundred years anaesthetics were denounced as ungodly and blasphemous, because they freed men of pain under the surgeon's knife. God wanted us to suffer, said the clergy.

To observe all carefully without denouncing is a good plan. What we call insanity today may be science at work next year.

GIRAFFES IN AFRICA AMOK

JOHANNESBURG, Nov. 9.—Two pet giraffes belonging to the chief's son caused a sensation when they ran amok in the township of Serowe, in Bechuanaland.

Before they could be secured by their native keeper they put to flight a European tennis party, chased the native women water carriers, charged a person who attempted to hurl rocks at them, and pawed and rolled on the ground an old woman who was not so fast as the younger members of the community.

Needs Winter Coat

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a girl of fourteen. My father has been in the hospital for the past five years with tuberculosis, and my oldest brother, who is seventeen, is also in the hospital now, so it makes it pretty hard for us. I would be very glad if I could get some clothes for myself and my mother, who is scarcely able to walk because of rheumatism. I would like a coat very much, for I went all last Winter without one, and it was pretty tough.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. K. M., who will be very grateful for them.

Man and Wife Need Coats

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a man fifty-eight years old. I am working in a restaurant as a general utility man. My salary is ten dollars a week. I would like to get an overcoat for myself and a coat for my wife of some kind, as it seems impossible for me to buy any. I don't smoke or drink, but am not strong enough to do heavier work where I would get more money. My wife is not able to work as she is almost an invalid from a chronic bladder trouble. My wife and I both wear size 50.

Widow and Six

Editor Helping Hand:

I am a widow with six children, all at school, and I find it pretty hard to get along on my fifteen dollars mother's aid. I do a little work outside, but have so much to do at home I get very tired. My oldest is a boy thirteen, three girls, eleven, ten and eight, two boys, seven and six. Anything at all would come in very handy to me. I am behind with the bills and my rent has almost doubled in the past year, so it doesn't look as if we could buy any clothes ever again.

Made Children Happy

Editor Helping Hand:

I wrote to the people you sent me the addresses of and received some nice packages. The things they sent were very useful, and will help me very much. The children are all happy, as where there is a large family, anything will do.

Help for Two

Editor Helping Hand:

Will you please send me the address of Mrs. C. O'M., as I think I can help her with some boy's and girl's clothes and for her husband. Would also like the address of Mrs. A. L. B., as I could bring her some vegetables and canned goods if she is not too far from me. I sent two boxes to one name you sent me, and another big box to another, and have received some lovely letters from each one. Such lovely letters more than repay me. I also took great pleasure in packing the boxes of dear little baby th[illegible] put a bassinet, cover, an[illegible]nings among other th[illegible]he dear mother had pa[illegible]'children and had ne[illegible] a bassinette for them, so she was delighted to have one for her twelfth.

MRS. P. L. C.

Thanks for all you are doing and the nice newsy letter also. You have been sent the two addresses you asked for.

Needs Hospital Treatment

Editor Helping Hand:

Today I received a very lovely letter from Mrs. C. C., in acknowledgement of things I sent her. She tells me that she has Bright's disease. I wonder if someone in Newburyport could not see if she could go to some hospital for her confinement. From her letter she seems to be a very nice woman, and it would be a great pity if she should be lost to her family through lack of care, as her condition must be serious.

MRS. C. W. H.

We agree with you. Perhaps there is a free bed in some Newburyport hospital, where she could be cared for. Thank you for your interest.

Six Children Need Clothes

Editor Helping Hand:

We are six children in our family. Will you please send us some clothes. We are in need of help very badly. We would like to have some coats or dresses or sweaters. We have a new little baby. We would like to have some clothes for her. We would take anything. Also anybody wants to give my father some clothes because he has not got any. He takes size 38 in suit and shoes size 7½, and we take shoes 10½, nine and five, from a girl twelve years old down to one week old. We are living out in the country.

For a Beauty Day

Editor Boston American:

The power of suggestion is unquestionable. A forceful suggestion concerning beauty and made on the minds of the people must have its ultimate effect. The World War interrupted all constructive effort toward national aesthetic amelioration, and it is high time the work were taken up where it was dropped. The observance of Beauty Day strikes me as an excellent beginning. Why not observe it?

Buys His Polish

Editor Boston American:

Recently I fell heir to a snug fortune. I am twenty-six and with a married woman whose husband travels. There is nothing wrong in our keeping company, as she is highly bred and highly educated. I only went to high school, so in exchange for my gifts to her she guides me in my English and is endeavoring to give me the polish necessary for social activities. She tells me she loves only her husband, but is willing to help me out of uncouth ways. A chum of mine insists I am wrong in keeping company with a married woman. How can that be when we have the highest regard for each other and have nothing to conceal or be ashamed of?

Clothes for Girl

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a woolen dress and jacket that would fit a girl from ten to sixteen. Also two parts woolen union suit for a girl about twelve or thirteen and one white flannel petticoat. Also a plaid skirt for a girl about the same age. I think I could get some baby clothes if needed from a friend.

MRS. H. W.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. M. D., who can find good use for these things.

For the Winter

Editor Helping Hand:

Please send me the address of some person who could make use of a Winter coat and some sweaters and a raincoat for a girl between twelve and fourteen. I also have some hats that I will give.

MISS H. McD.

Thank you. You have been sent the address of Mrs. J. J. F., who has a girl twelve years old who is in need of such things.

LITTLE CHICKS WITH WORLD-RESOUNDING CROWS

By Herbert Kaufman

SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS has just been offered and refused for an Oregon timber tract which several folks still living in the neighborhood could have once bought for $6,000.

Prime truck farms between Tacoma and Seattle bring $800 an acre. Not so very long ago they went begging for $50.

A hundred thousand square leagues of available Northwest land, now purchasable with clerk's savings and school teachers' nest-eggs, will repeat the performance before black-haired generations turn gray.

Villages near Puyallup haven't yet shed their false fronts, despite the fact that they snuggle the nation's premier berry district and chief preserving centre.

Mother Hubbard Had But One Cupboard

Little chicks of industry, breaking shell on the Pacific when McKinley first entered the White House, are rapidly becoming cocks of commerce, sending challenging crows around the world.

Old Mother Columbia must open their cupboards if she hopes to keep hungry factory packs supplied with bones.

They've eaten themselves bare of adjacent natural resources, so necessity whips them over the Rockies to cheap abundance.

The law of supply and demand, not booster-clubs and railway promotion departments, is "settling with sage" with millers and furniture-makers, vegetable-packers and fruit-canners, cement kilns and brickyards, ore-smelters and milk condensers, chemical laboratories and looms.

The movement is irresistible. Balance sheets compel it.

The Lure of the Bargain Counter

A vicious circle of long hauls, increasing all fundamental costs from wages to rents in one-half the United States, is breaking by calculation.

The rest of the country needs rawstuffs; the Northwest needs development.

It's less expensive to process and finish merchandise where bases are exhaustless than tote double burdens over the range and pay confiscatory taxes at every economic toll-gate en route.

Nothing can withstand a twenty-six-million-horsepower tug, plus the lure of a two-thousand-mile bargain counter, crowded with wood, copper, wool and pasturage.

That's what's drawing another collection of Pittsburghs, Lawrences, Detroits, Daytons and Grand Rapids over the hills to the storehouse.

It's all a matter of dollars and sense—all for the sake of bigger dollars, and because success senses defeat if the distance from initial to final operation isn't promptly shortened.

Opportunity Designs a Greenhouse

You recently read how the Westinghouse Company and Columbia University botanists have cut nature's maturity schedules 50 per cent. by forcing germination and growth with artificial heat and illumination.

Opportunity has designed a similar electrified greenhouse beyond the Mississippi. Plants located there will expand faster than any of the previous record.

The Great War, with its insatiate appetites, has driven production to desperation and frontiers.

Our fleece-clip should and shall be woven there; as the South's shuttles and oil-presses are prospering beside its plantations.

Trainloads of Knotholes

The tree must be chopped, sawed, sanded, lathed, turned to trim, mould, door, shutter, sash, chair and showcase, within sight of its own stump, and the very stump macerated, pulped and pressed into substitute lumber.

Of all criminal extravagance, none transcends payment of freight charges on sawdust, shavings, chips and knotholes. Ship in net form, and knock-down, and behold prices tumble from their insolent peaks.

Why load five cars with live beef and mutton when the dressed carcasses may be held in one?

Little journeys to distant slaughter-houses for hoof, horn, hide, hair, offal and blood, explain why meat is so dear at the butcher's block.

Additional stockyards are breasting the Oregon trail. Armours and Swifts and Wilsons are too shrewd to leave a loophole open for underselling competition.

No Spanish Castle Bonds for Wall Street

Hill and prophetic Wall Street foresaw the inevitable trend of progress and stretched anticipatory rails from Minneapolis elevators to Pacific harbors. And please note that they double-tracked the system.

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul directors peeked beyond the curtain and courageously bridged a two-day expanse of wilderness with the most efficient traffic structure on earth.

The late J. P. Morgan knew where and how great our reserves were—you couldn't get him to sell America short while the virgin Northwest guaranteed dividends on constructive optimism.

Harriman studied the prospect and poured millions into the fertile lap of possibility.

Seattle's amazing port facilities, the last word in competence and magnitude, were inspired by analysis, not famous enthusiasm. Boomers and speculators build the best Castles-in-Spain, but it takes hard-headed, verifying finance to underwrite and operate a machinery for an eager, young empire.

Westward ho! and go the limit! No man with a tittle of vision can stand on the Great Divide, scan the future and remain a conservative.

How Angry Mama Greeted Her College Boy's "Frat-House Vamp"

Maybe It WAS Only a Lark, but Rich Mrs. Talbot Had the Young Grass-Widow Jailed When She Learned of the Vacation Goings-On in Her Home

AS MRS. TALBOT SAYS IT HAPPENED——

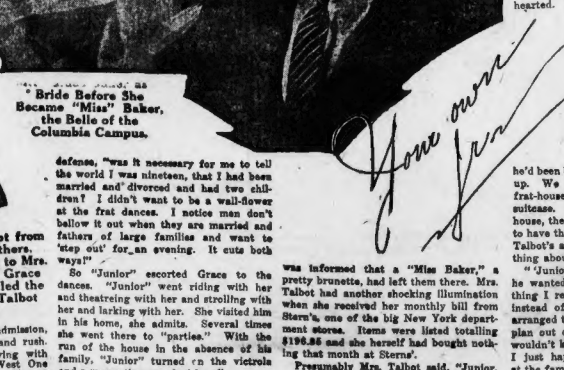
Her Apartment Secretly Ransacked of Pretty Things by a Designing "Frat-House Vamp."

AS GRACE BAKER SAYS IT HAPPENED——

Mrs. Talbot's Frocks and Frills Openly Borrowed, in Her Son's Presence, for an Innocent Frat-House Lark.

Hammond Talbot, Jr., a Photo He Presented to "Miss" Baker

Receipt from Stern Brothers, Department Store, to Mrs. Harriet S. Donaldson, Grace Baker's Mother, Who Settled the Account Charged to Mrs. Talbot by Her Daughter.



"Bride Before She Became "Miss" Baker, the Belle of the Columbia Campus.

ENTER, with a baby stare and cuddly ways and cute flapper slang, with a college cheer on her lips, a Greek letter pin on her blouse (and the dollar mark hidden under the heart on her sleeve), a new classification among modern sirens. You know the "adventuress," the "gold-digger" and the "salamander." Meet their little sister in gentle grafting, the "frat-house vamp," successor to the "college widow" of our dad's days.

When she fox-trots at commencement hops, when she shrieks madly for a touchdown at the Thanksgiving game, when she pats the freshman on his curly head and coos enchantingly to the sophomore in the darkest corner of the campus, she is, perhaps, indistinguishable from any harmless sub-deb.

But lift the sub-deb mask and you discover beneath it a calculating woman, one whose spoils of conquest are not inexpensive fraternity jewelry and dance programmes and love letters and photographs inscribed to the "only girl," but more material loot—frocks, furs, gold mesh-bags, silver slippers, diamonds and frequently hard cash.

The "frat-house vamp," in brief, belongs in the same category with her big sisters with this difference. That where their hunting ground is Broadway and Palm Beach and other haunts of rich men, hers is the habitat of rich men's sons; that, where the "gold-digger" angles for a bald-headed "daddy" with a thick check-book, the "frat-house vamp" hooks the pink-cheeked undergraduate whose allowance is fat.

The New York police—authority for this thumb-nail description of a type not rarely encountered by them in a city which boasts a dozen large universities in its environs—say they have nabbed a "frat-house vamp" in the person of pretty, charming, vividly brunette Grace Baker, who reigned a gay season as the belle of the campus at Columbia, and then was arrested on the unvarnished charges of larceny and forgery, pleaded guilty to the first charge and was sentenced to an indefinite term in Bedford Reformatory.

Since the arrest of Mrs. Grace Baker—or "Miss" Baker, as the chaperones knew her at the informal dances in the chapter-houses on Morningside Heights—a certain group of Columbia gallants face the world both stunned and sheepish. And, of them all, none is more subdued in manner than nineteen-year-old Hammond Talbot, Jr.

"Junior" Talbot, by his own admission, gave "Miss" Grace Baker a grand rush. He was a resident student, living with his rich parents at No. 508 West One Hundred and Fourteenth street, adjacent to the Columbia campus, and during the Summer term, while his family was out of town, he was particularly devoted.

No one looked up Grace Baker's history or antecedents. No one cared—certainly not a giddy crowd of rah-rah boys. She lived with her mother, according to the general understanding, on nearby Riverside Drive. Presumably she was well off. She dressed tastefully, she was bewitchingly pretty, she could dance like a streak, and she seemed scarcely more than sixteen.

"Why," asks Grace Baker in her own defense, "was it necessary for me to tell the world I was nineteen, that I had been married and divorced and had two children? I didn't want to be a wall-flower at the frat dances. I notice men don't bellow it out when they are married and fathers of large families and want to 'step out' for an evening. It cuts both ways!"

So "Junior" escorted Grace to the dances. "Junior" went riding with her and theatreing with her and strolling with her and larking with her. She visited him in his home, she admits. Several times she went there to "parties." With the run of the house in the absence of his family, "Junior" turned on the victrola and a merry time was had by all.

To all appearances there was nothing more tangible here than a harmless boy and girl romance when—Mrs. Hammond Talbot, Sr., came home. She came home suddenly, for the neighbors had written. And, face to face, the neighbors said what they didn't write. Mrs. Talbot began to investigate.

She inspected her wardrobe. A hat, a handsome fur, a tea-gown and other duds were missing. The next day, to her amazement, she saw them swinging on the line in a dry cleaning establishment. She was informed that a "Miss Baker," a pretty brunette, had left them there. Mrs. Talbot had another shocking illumination when she received her monthly bill from Stern's, one of the big New York department stores. Items were listed totalling $196.86 and she herself had bought nothing that month at Stern's.

Presumably Mrs. Talbot said, "Junior, come here!" And presumably her son, "on the carpet," hemmed and hawed and finally confessed. For, within twenty-four hours, "Miss" Grace Baker was in Jefferson Market jail on a charge of grand larceny and the cat was out of the bag.

More than one cat, in fact. The facts about her marriage and divorce were learned. The police charged that two years before she had been arrested, at which time it was published that she was accused of chloroforming a woman while an accomplice robbed the victim. On the books was found still another complaint against her—by Mrs. E. C. Baxter, who said "Miss" Baker had ordered clothes and jewels on her accounts at New York shops and, when they were delivered, intercepted them at the switch-board of the apartment, as she is accused of having done with the goods charged to Mrs. Talbot at Sterns'. That latter store registered an accusation of forgery against "Miss" Baker on the ground that she signed Mrs. Talbot's name to a credit slip.

Despite the sudden and embarrassing termination to her career as a campus belle, Grace Baker refused to be downhearted. Before she pleaded guilty to the larceny charge in court, she denied all accusations hotly:

"The charge I stole these things from Mrs. Talbot is nonsense. Why Junior and all the boys were there! It was just a lark. Sam Moore said he'd bet he would have made a wonderful vampire if he'd been born a girl. Somebody took him up. We decided to have a test at the frat-house. I packed some clothes in a suitcase. On our way to the chapter-house, they fell out in the mud. I planned to have them cleaned and restored to Mrs. Talbot's apartment before she knew anything about it.

"'Junior' and I were engaged. He said he wanted to give me a present—something I really desired—so I took clothes instead of a ring. He told me he had arranged to pay Sterns' on the installment plan out of his allowance so his mother wouldn't know he had charged the things. I just happened to be visiting 'Junior' at the family apartment the afternoon the purchases arrived. As to that business about Mrs. Baxter, we had a joint account in her name and she knew I was charging the things. I didn't commit any forgery. I signed nothing at Sterns'. They can't prove that!"

"Miss" Baker's brown eyes flashed.

"I'm not a 'frat-house vamp!'" she added. "I'm not a thief! My people are well off! My mother, Mrs. Harriet Donaldson, has paid the bill at Sterns'. I have a liberal allowance. I didn't want clothes or money. I just wanted a good time!"

Medbury Says—

By John P. Medbury

DURING National Apple Week, many renounced their doctors and ate apples.

APPLES are sure to make you healthy, but at the prices they're charging for them, it's cheaper to have a physician.

OF course apples are only expensive in California, but that's because they grow them out there.

FRUIT is bound to be high in the West on account of the freight. They ship apples from Watsonville, California, to Los Angeles by way of New York.

AND some of them cost so much that they must have got off the train at Chicago and made the rest of the journey in taxicabs.

WITH peaches, lemons, grapefruit, plums, quinces, watermelons and canteloupes to choose from, Eve listens to the advice of some advertising man and eats an apple.

SHE figured it would make her healthy, but after she saw that she lost Paradise on account of it, she was sick the rest of her life.

ADAM thought it over, too, and realized how foolish they had been as there was no doctor to keep away.

THE day they left Paradise the Chamber of Commerce of Los Angeles wired them to come to Southern California, claiming it was better than the place they were leaving.

BUT Adam refused. He didn't want Eve to get mixed up in any moving picture scandal.

THE publicity men for the orchards tell us when to eat apples, where to eat them and why to eat them. But with the prices going up all the time they ought to tell us how we're going to get them.

ONCE-OVERS

(Copyright, 1923, by International Feature Service, Inc.)

BEWARE OF THE DAY WHEN SENTIMENT DEPARTS.

In some way, sentiment has flown from your home.

There was a time when you both were filled with little thrills of joy or gladness at every attention no matter how trivial.

Then one or the other of you felt so engrossed with family and business cares that the small courtesies were gradually omitted, or perhaps an actual distaste was expressed at such a show of sentiment when more serious matters existed.

One or the other was probably hurt at a caress rebuffed or omitted.

Then a certain philosophy of spirit and an understanding of problems to worry about caused a forgetfulness of the hurt. And you did what you pleased and so did your partner. Neither could criticize the other in fairness.

Occasionally you were seen together for the speech of people, but neither of you were contented when together because you were "out of the habit."

Whose fault is it that you are both so indifferent?

Better think it over and see just where you are headed before it is too late.
